Ohio Winds Up Hectic Campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the most elaborate campaigns ever waged on behalf of an issue in Ohio comes to a close today with its fate squarely in the hands of the voters.

Long Following Dangerous Path

WASHINGTON (AP) — The consensus around the Senate is that in opposing the passage of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Sen. Russell B. Long is following a lonely road with dangerous political crossings ahead.

No other senator, Democrat or Republican, has stepped up yet to say that Dodd, D-Conn., should not be censured for misconduct as recommended unanimously by a special Ethics Committee of six.

In his Spartan stand for his beleaguered colleague, Long, D-La., has slashed out with a broad sword at members whose support he is likely to need in can-drafted plan to district the legislature (Issue No. 2). Polls close at 6:30 p.m.

Rhodes wound up his intensive personal campaign for the issues on an aerial tour, speaking at 15 airports around the state. He repeated his claim that the bond commission is the only means available to meet Ohio's current capital improvement needs and provide orderly planning for the future.

Opponents, primarily Democrats, insisted the apportionment plan and the OBC comprise an administration scheme designed to perpetuate Republicans in office and taking from voters their traditional right to decide on the limit of the state debt.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown avoided making his customary prediction of the voter turnout but said balloting probably will be light. Brown noted that two years ago, when four statewide issues were on the May ballot, about 1.3 million Ohioans voted. The state has about 5 million eligible voters.

An unusual aspect of the campaign has been the crossing of party lines. Major examples are endorsement of the OBC by Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche and what amounted to a rejection by former GOP Gov. now Supreme Court Justice C. William O'Neill.

Several Democrats supported the OBC in the legislature and two Republicans campaigned openly against it. Several Democratic mayors and local officials gave endorsements. The majority of Ohio newspapers did also.

The final week of the campaign brought increasingly sharp words from the governor who deplored opponents and repeatedly charged they are "obstructionists."

In a statement Sunday, Rhodes said "these obstructionists have no positive program to help anybody. They just want to block the bond commission because it is somebody else's idea."

Rhodes' Monday schedule listed stops at these airports: Warren-Youngstown, Akron-Canton, Cleveland Lakefront, Toledo Express, Defiance, Lima, Springfield, Montgomery County, Hamilton, Cincinnati Lunken, Marion and Zanesville.

Members of the committee, headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., are regarded around the Senate as men of more than ordinary patience and forbearance. They include also Sens. Wallace Bennett, R-Utah; Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn.; A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla.; John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and James B. Pearson, R-Kan.

Long's thundering charge that the practice of which Dodd is accused—appropriating testimony for personal use—is "all too prevalent" in the Senate touched a highly sensitive political nerve.

Members' mail shows that the public is inclined to think the worst of politicians, no matter how clean their hands may be. His colleagues therefore are not likely to overflow with goodwill toward the Louisiana senator for volunteering some substance for that viewpoint.

Nobody faults Long for standing up for a friend—it's just the manner in which he has done it so far.

Fishing Boat Feared Lost Is Recovered

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — A fishing boat presumed sunk with the loss of its six crewmen was under tow today as its skipper awaited a reunion with his father, skipper of another boat that had been feared lost in an Atlantic storm.

"It's wonderful news. It's a miracle, I think," said John A. Edwards, 60, of New Bedford on learning that his son, George, 34, of Mattapoisett, was safe.

"I was sure they were done for," he said.

The younger Edwards' 94-foot lobster boat Deep Water was listed as "presumed lost" by the Coast Guard Saturday. The Coast Guard last contact with it Friday when it was about 100 miles south of Martha's Vineyard.

A Coast Guard amphibious plane from Elizabeth City, N.C., located the Deep Water Sunday as she drifted without power 190 miles east of Delaware Bay. The cutter Tamaroa reached the vessel later and began helping her to New Bedford. Arrival is expected Tuesday.

The elder Edwards brought the 94-foot fishing vessel Elizabeth N. and its six crewmen into home port at New Bedford Sunday. The vessel had been feared lost since Saturday when the Coast Guard was unable to receive radio reports from her after Edwards reported trouble.

PAINT-UP JOB UNDER WAY — Despite today's dampish weather, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ziegler of 244 Nicholas Drive have launched their outside painting project. From Skillets and Pots To Skullduggery Spotting

NEW YORK (AP) — Bingo cheaters beware! The city is set to hire housewives as spies and, if they spot skullduggery, your number will be up.

Licenses Commissioner Joel J. Tyler, announcing the plan Sunday, said the women would be undercover agents.

"I'm going to send teams to particular games in each of the boroughs," he said. "It isn't that we suspect any widespread cheating, but some bingo fans become real experts in playing this game. So expert that they win all the time, and they win because they've learned how to cheat."

As for the female spy squad, Tyler commented, "I'm not going to say publicly how many we're going to hire."

The commissioner said the city realized $800,000 in fees from bingo games last year and quoted a report saying New York State bingo buffs spent $30.8 million in 1964.

The state gets a $12.50 fee and the city $10 for each "occasion" at which the game is played. Bingo games are conducted by many religious organizations and clubs, with volunteers running the games.

Tyler told of his bingo spy plans on the WHN radio program "New York Speaks Out."

Plans call for the women agents to work two nights a week. They'll be paid $20 a night to play bingo and observe. If they lose, they'll be reimbursed. If they win, the extra cash goes to the city.

The women will make no arrests. They will report irregularities to the License Department. Department inspectors will take it from there. The women selected will receive one week's training from the state Bingo Control Commission.

Bingo is a form of lottery. Numbers are drawn and announced. Players may hold one or more cards and mark the numbers when they appear on their cards. A set of five numbers running horizontally, vertically or diagonally wins.

One Bronx woman, Tyler said, was arrested last week.

"She pasted little paper squares with the winning numbers on her playing card," the commissioner said. "And just to make sure, she had confederates sitting on either side of her to verify her wins."

"We might never have caught up with her if she hadn't forgotten to take the card home with her one night. One of the game operators felt the Flimsies pasted on it."

Tyler said there were many other ways of cheating at bingo, but "I don't want to go into detail about it—I don't want to give anybody ideas."

Crash Survivor Ready To Fly Same Type Plane

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — The lone survivor of the Air Force radar picket plane which crashed off Nantucket Island says he is ready to fly in the same type of plane again as soon as he is able.

"I like to fly," said 1st Lt. Joseph L. H. Glenet, 29, of Island Pond, Vt., at a hospital news conference Sunday. "I believe the aircraft is basically a sound aircraft."

The deaths of 15 other crewmen in the crash Tuesday night brought to 50 the toll in three crashes of the huge $7.2 million Otis-based planes within 22 months.

Otis had temporarily grounded the craft for inspection. Congressional and Air Force investigators also are studying its safety.

In requesting the new ban, Johnson promised to send up legislation "within a few days."

Porposals by a special presidential mediation panel for settlement of the rail dispute were rejected.

Youth Employment Program for Area Moving Forward

Prospects for summer employment of Pickaway County high school and college students become extremely important to these young people each year at this time.

Usually the job outlook for them appears quite bleak. To partially alleviate this situation the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce has decided to coordinate a non-profit "Summer Employment Service."

Initial groundwork for establishing the program has been under way several weeks. Several Chamber members, including original planner Alden D. Bray, have completed preliminary steps to make the project a reality.

The basic program will involve registration of all students interested in employment and the matching of job opportunities as jobs become known.

ALL TYPES of summer work, including full-time assignments or occasional needs such as babysitting, yard work, farm work, vacation relief, and house work will be handled by the Chamber function.

The Area Chamber, along with several civic organizations that have expressed willingness to help, hopes to provide finances to launch and keep the program going. Estimates indicate total administrative costs for the program will be about $600.

The cost figure would include the salary for a part-time student clerk, office supplies and such advertising that might be needed to make prospective employers and the general public aware of the service.

General Electric's Circleville plant has volunteered to furnish an equipped office, including telephone service, as a base of operation.

Wayne Smith of General Electric is serving as committee chairman. Bray is handling finances and Mrs. E. R. (Jerry) Bennett is acting as program treasurer.

Persons promoting the program feel there is considerable work to be done around homes and businesses in the community. "If the general public knows where to turn for temporary assistance they will use it," they enthusiastically say.

U.S. Marines Suffer Heavy Casualties

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots shot down three more communist MIG's over North Vietnam today while just south of the demilitarized zone U. S. Marines suffered and inflicted heavy casualties battling North Vietnamese soldiers for a strategic hill.

A Marine spokesman said 49 Marines were killed and 156 wounded as they fought foot by foot Sunday up the slopes of twinpeaked Hill 881. The Marines have had 86 men killed and 240 wounded in the past week in the area.

The spokesman said the Marines killed 180 Communists. Elements of two Marine battalions clung to their positions overnight and moved forward today in a new attempt to take the summit for use as an out post for checking North Vietnamese movements. There are reported to be 35,000 North Vietnamese regulars in and around the demilitarized zone, possibly poised for major assault.

As the Marines halted their advance late Sunday, tactical bombers and B52s dumped tons of explosives on the North Vietnamese positions.

The air war flared to a new intensity with 133 missions over North Vietnam and a record 577 strikes over the South.

Two U.S. Army helicopters collided over the Bien Hoa Air base, 15 miles northwest of Saigon, late today and all eight crewmen in two craft were killed, a U. S. military spokesman said.

The MIG kills brought to 48 the total number reported shot down in the war, including four in the last two days. The U.S. command has announced the

Go-Ahead Given by LBJ For New Supersonic Jet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manufacturers waiting for months for the signal from Washington to begin work on the construction of two prototypes of a supersonic jet airliner have been turned loose and told to get moving on the project.

The go-ahead came Saturday from President Johnson.

It was followed immediately by statements from the two principal contractors, the Boeing Co. and General Electric, that they were prepared to proceed swiftly.

They hope to fly the first SST in 1970.

The firms had to wait for the starting gun to be sounded in Washington because government money — perhaps a billion dollars or more — will be poured into the prototypes.

Government funds are subsidizing the project on the theory that the development costs are going to be so great private industry shouldn't be expected to

Sudden Strike In Minnesota Injures Many

By ROBERT B. FRANKLIN WASECA, Minn. (AP)—

Searchers probed through splintered rubble of homes smashed by tornadoes at Waseca and Albert Lea today grimly looking for more bodies in the aftermath of a night of storm terror which left a dozen dead, over 100 injured and property damage in the millions at eight communities and numerous farms.

The violent Minnesota weather claimed 16 lives.

Three teen-age brothers were swept out to sea and apparently drowned at Duluth harbor in northeastern Minnesota Sunday night, and a Coast Guardman drowned in a vain rescue attempt.

Police said high waves driven by powerful winds knocked Erick Halverson, 18, and his 17-year-old twin brothers, Nathan and Art, off a pier into Lake Superior. Boatswain Mate 1st Class Edgar A. Culbertson also was washed off the breakwater and drowned.

A band of possibly a half-dozen tornadoes smashed across a 50-mile-wide area of southern Minnesota around the dinner hour Sunday night.

"It was horrible!" exclaimed Mrs. Archie Draheim of Waseca. "We were sitting at the dinner table eating when the picture window hit me and my husband right in the face. There was no warning. There was this terrible rain falling and all of a sudden I was diving along the floor with glass all around me."

She and her husband were treated for cuts at a hospital and released.

Countless others were similarly taken by surprise, even though a tornado watch had been issued by the Weather Bureau for the area.

Five were killed in Waseca and two were critically hurt and taken to a Rochester hospital.

Police searched the wrecked area today but reported no additional dead or injured.

More than 60 persons were treated for injuries and 14 remained hospitalized in Waseca.

Police said eight Waseca homes were destroyed and about 30 others were damaged, some severely, on the south side of Clear Lake, where the twister hit. Many cars were damaged.

National Guard units were on duty guarding the twister-damaged area, a stretch about two blocks wide and eight blocks long in the southeast part of town. The twister skipped over Clear Lake and struck homes on the other side.

Albert Lea had a wider area of destruction, but the known death there was two — Elmer Manuel, 41, and his wife Lucy 46, both of Albert Lea. Ten per-

MOSCOW (AP) — Marshal Andrei A. Grechko, the new Soviet defense minister, opened May Day ceremonies in Red Square today with standard Soviet attacks on the United States, West Germany and Red China.

No new weapons were among the 330 that rumbled through the square in the annual parade. Observers believe the armed forces are saving up surprise weapons for a plush display on Nov. 7, the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Workers throughout the Eastern Hemisphere and in parts of Latin America celebrated labor's traditional day. Although Labor Day is celebrated in September in the United States, American groups held loyalty marches Saturday in cities from Newport, Ore., to New York.

The Moscow parade displayed anti-aircraft rockets of the kind used in North Vietnam against American planes, antiballistic missiles and 110-foot intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Among those on the reviewing stand were Communist party Secretary General Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Grechko made a milder speech than usually came from his predecessor, the late Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky.

In his six-minute speech, he charged that the "monopolistic bourgeoisie" in the United States are responsible for the Vietnamese war.

Ohio Winds Up Hectic Campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the most elaborate campaigns ever waged on behalf of an issue in Ohio comes to a close today with its fate square in the hands of the voters. Beginning at 6:30 a.m. EDT Tuesday, Ohioans will vote on Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposed Ohio Bond Commission (Issue No. 1) and a Republican-drafted plan to district the legislature (Issue No. 2). Polls close at 6:30 p.m. Rhodes wound up his intensive personal campaign for the issues on an aerial tour, speaking at 15 airports around the state. He repeated his claim that the bond commission is the only means available to meet Ohio's current capital improve-the future in his varied and often complicated enterprises as the Senate's assistant Democratic leader and chairman of its Finance Committee.

Long's offhand observation that half the senators couldn't stand the kind of inquiry that was made of Dodd was generally regarded as an example of how to make political enemies without even trying.

He left unidentified the half he was indicting and the half he was absolving, thus clouding every individual member except possibly himself. He explained that his daddy, the late Huey Long, had left him enough money so he didn't have to worry about outside financial monkey-shines.

He could afford, he said, to take the Senate in stride as "my favorite charity."

Long said the six special committee members were afraid that if they didn't bring out a censure resolution against Dodd they would be subject to "the same kind of calumny and smear" to which he said columnists had subjected the Connecticut senator.

Members of the committee, headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., are regarded around the Senate as men of more than ordinary patience and forbearance. They include also Sens. ALL TYPES of summer work, including full-time assignments or occasional needs such as babysitting, yard work, farm work, vacation relief, and house work will be handled by the Chamber function.

The Area Chamber, along with several civic organizations that have expressed willingness to help, hopes to provide finances to launch and keep the program going. Estimates indicate total administrative costs for the program will be about $600.

The cost figure would include the salary for a part-time student clerk, office supplies and such advertising that might be needed to make prospective employers and the general public aware of the service.

General Electric's Circleville plant has volunteered to furnish an equipped office, including telephone service, as a base of operation.

Wayne Smith of General Electric is serving as committee chairman. Bray is handling finances and Mrs. E. R. (Jerry) Bennett is acting as program treasurer.

Persons promoting the program feel there is considerable work to be done around homes and businesses in the community. "If the general public knows where to turn for temporary assistance they will use it," they enthusiastically say.

U.S. Marines Suffer Heavy Casualties

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. pilots shot down three more communists MIG's over North Vietnam today while just south of the demilitarized zone U. S. Marines suffered and inflicted heavy casualties battling North Vietnamese soldiers for a strategic hill.

A Marine spokesman said 49 Marines were killed and 156 wounded as they fought foot by foot Sunday up the slopes of twin-peaked Hill 881. The Marines have had 86 men killed and 240 wounded in the past week in the area.

The spokesman said the Marines killed 180 Communists. Elements of two Marine battalions clung to their positions overnight and moved forward today in a new attempt to take the summit for use as an out post for checking North Vietnamese movements. There are reported to be 35,000 North Vietnamese regulars in and around the demilitarized zone, possibly poised for major assault.

As the Marines halted their advance late Sunday, tactical bombers and B52s dumped tons of explosives on the North Vietnamese positions. The air war flared to a new intensity with 133 missions over North Vietnam and a record 577 strikes over the South.

Two U.S. Army helicopters collided over the Bien Hoa Air base, 15 miles northwest of Saigon, late today and all eight crewmen in two craft were killed, a U. S. military spokesman said.

The MIG kills brought to 48 the total number reported shot down in the war, including four in the last two days. The U.S. command has announced the

Sudden Strike In Minnesota Injures Many

By ROBERT B. FRANKLIN

WASECA, Minn. (AP)—Searchers probed through splintered rubble of homes smashed by tornadoes at Waseca and Albert Lea today grimly looking for more bodies in the aftermath of a night of storm terror which left a dozen dead, over 100 injured and property damage in the millions at eight communities and numerous farms.

The violent Minnesota weather claimed 16 lives.

Three teenage brothers were swept out to sea and apparently drowned at Duluth harbor in northeastern Minnesota Sunday night, and a Coast Guardman drowned in a vain rescue attempt.

Police said high waves driven by powerful winds knocked Erick Halverson, 18, and his 17-year-old twin brothers, Nathan and Art, off a pier into Lake Superior. Boatswain Mate 1st Class Edgar A. Culbertson also was washed off the breakwater and drowned.

A band of possibly a half-dozen tornadoes smashed across a 50-mile-wide area of southern Minnesota around the dinner hour Sunday night.

"It was horrible!" exclaimed Mrs. Archie Draheim of Waseca. "We were sitting at the dinner table eating when the picture window hit me and my husband right in the face. There was no warning. There was this terrible rain falling and all of a sudden I was diving along the floor with glass all around me."

She and her husband were treated for cuts at a hospital and released.

Countless others were similarly taken by surprise, even though a tornado watch had been issued by the Weather Bureau for the area.

Five were killed in Waseca and two were critically hurt and taken to a Rochester hospital.

Police searched the wrecked area today but reported no additional dead or injured. More than 60 persons were treated for injuries and 14 remained hospitalized in Waseca. Police said eight Waseca homes were destroyed and about 30 others were damaged, some severely, on the south side of Clear Lake, where the twister hit. Many cars were damaged.

National Guard units were on duty guarding the twister-damaged area, a stretch about two blocks wide and eight blocks long in the southeast part of town. The twister skipped over Clear Lake and struck homes on the other side.

Albert Lea had a wider area of destruction, but the known death there was two — Elmer Manuel, 41, and his wife Lucy, 46, both of Albert Lea. Ten per-

Go-Ahead Given by LBJ For New Supersonic Jet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Manufacturers waiting for months for the signal from Washington to begin work on the construction of two prototypes of a supersonic jet airliner have been turned loose and told to get moving on the project.

The go-ahead came Saturday from President Johnson.

It was followed immediately by statements from the two principal contractors, the Boeing Co. and General Electric, that they were prepared to proceed swiftly.

They hope to fly the first SST in 1970.

The firms had to wait for the starting gun to be sounded in Washington because government money — perhaps a billion dollars or more — will be poured into the prototypes.

Government funds are subsidizing the project on the theory that the development costs are going to be so great private industry shouldn't be expected to bear the burden alone. In addition, putting American SSTs in the air is tied up with questions of national pride. The Soviets are already well along in developing theirs and the British and French are collaborating on one.

The Boeing-GE prototypes, individually crafted planes which will prove or disprove the designers' theories, are expected to fly 1,800 miles an hour—more than twice the speed of sound—and be big enough to carry 300 passengers.

The price tag on an SST, when finally ready for purchase by commercial airlines in this country and abroad, has been estimated at $35 million to $40 million per plane.

In his statement Saturday the President said he will ask Congress to add $198 million to the $250 million it has already earmarked to be spent for the prototype program in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Ike Is Proud Of American War Record

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)—"America doesn't have to apologize for her part in the war—she can be proud of it," said former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"I hope America will wake up to the fact that our soldiers are dying for something we believe in," he said.

Then he and his wife Mamie prepared to leave San Bernardino, Calif., by train late today for their home in Gettysburg, Pa.

Since January the Eisenhowers have vacationed at their winter home in Palm Desert. They started the annual visits in 1954.

Eisenhower's comments about the Vietnam war came after a three-hour visit Saturday with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, who was en route back to the fighting.

Eisenhower called Westmoreland's task "the toughest soldier's job yet."

"And he has conducted it admirably," Eisenhower added.

Northwest Greece Has Sharp Quake

IOANNINA, Greece (AP)—A sharp earthquake struck this northwestern agricultural region of Greece today, killing at least five persons and injuring more than 30.

Police reported rescue teams were searching through the debris of nine villages leveled near the heavily guarded Greek-Albanian border.

Most of the crumbled houses were 2-story farm buildings.

The quake's center was about 20 miles north of Ioannina.

Fishing Boat Feared Lost Is Recovered

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—A fishing boat presumed sunk with the loss of its six crewmen was under tow today as its skipper awaited a reunion with his father, skipper of another boat that had been feared lost in an Atlantic storm.

"It's wonderful news. It's a miracle, I think," said John A. Edwards, 60, of New Bedford on learning that his son, George, 34, of Mattapoisett, was safe.

"I was sure they were done for," he said.

The younger Edwards' 94-foot lobster boat Deep Water was listed as "presumed lost" by the Coast Guard Saturday. The Coast Guard lost contact with it Friday when it was about 100 miles south of Martha's Vineyard.

A Coast Guard amphibious plane from Elizabeth City, N.C., located the Deep Water Sunday as she drifted without power 190 miles east of Delaware Bay. The cutter Tamaroa reached the vessel later and began helping her to New Bedford. Arrival is expected Tuesday.

The elder Edwards brought the 94-foot fishing vessel Elizabeth N. and its six crewmen into home port at New Bedford Sunday. The vessel had been feared lost since Saturday when the Coast Guard was unable to receive radio reports from her after Edwards reported trouble.

NASA Tries To Work Out New Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency is meeting with present and prospective contractors to set a new schedule for putting a man on the moon.

The action, announced Saturday, follows criticism of the main Apollo spaceship contractor, North American Aviation Inc., during investigations into the flash fire that killed three astronauts Jan. 27.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said discussions are being held with North American, Aerojet General Corp., Boeg Co., General Electric Co., Lockheed Aircraft Corp., the Martin Co. and McDonnell Douglas Corp.

NASA said the talks are aimed at getting the program back to full operation as soon as possible.

Earlier Saturday Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., made public the so-called Phillips report, referred to in congressional testimony about the Apollo disaster.

The critical report was of a late 1965 review of North American's Downey, Calif., plan by a team under direction of Maj. Gen. Samuel S. Phillips.

In a cover letter written Dec. 19, 1965, to the president of North American, Phillips said "The conclusions expressed in our briefing and notes are critical. Even with due consideration of hopeful signs, I could not find a substantive basis for confidence in future performance."

NASA Administrator James E. Webb told congressional investigators release of the report would damage relations with North American. The most critical sections of the report had mostly been covered in excerpts released at the hearings.

Ryan, a member of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, would not say how he obtained the report.

Phillips testified that in a study four months later he found North American had corrected some deficiencies and was progressing toward correcting the rest.

Pre-School Clinic Slated May 11 at Walnut School

The pre-school clinic for Walnut and Teays Valley School District has been scheduled to commence operations on May 11 from 8:45 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. at Walnut Twp. School.

Parents are requested to register children who will be 6-years-old by Sept. 1967.

Children who become six between Sept. 1 and Nov. 1 also are to be registered. However, these children will be given a readiness test later during the summer to determine if they will enter school in September.

Children who have not or cannot receive necessary shots for entrance in the first grade from their family physician may get them through the Pickaway County Health Department.

It was requested that all children should have birth certificates at the time of registration to confirm age.

Youngsters are to be brought to school by their parents. Because of the shots and possible after effects, they should not be permitted to ride home on the school buses, according to Theodore Snyder, school principal.

Steel Import Charge Denied By Producer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman's charge that American steel companies probably imported much of the foreign steel from which they want trade protection is denied by one major producer.

Rep. Thomas B. Cuts, R-Mo., raised the charge Sunday in a report to the House on the 70-nation trade talks at Geneva.

Joseph L. Block, board chairman of Inland Steel Corp., said in Chicago his firm has purchased no imported steel and has no intention of doing so.

Roger Biough, head of U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel manufacturer scheduled at news conference for this afternoon.

Curtis said the U.S. steel industry "has more than held its own against competing materials" and added that "the very industries whose representatives are opposing imports in Washington may be in fact large purchasers of foreign steel."

Block said Curtis "has given credence to certain showmen discredited and false comments made by individuals not truly familiar with the industry."

Block said foreign steel is entering U.S. markets below domestic prices because of overseas government subsidies and cheaper labor costs.

He said "special temporary legislation should be enacted by the Congress to partially close this gap."

The steel industry launched a drive Feb. 8 for enactment of a temporary levy on steel imports in order to it said protect an essential defense industry and maintain living standards of American workers.

Curtis said, "Though the portion of the U.S. market taken by imports is larger, the total steel pie has increased so much that there has been no damage."

He said U.S. steel companies probably bought steel abroad rather than admit to old customers that they could not supply steel and perhaps lose them.

Curtis said "Conditions in the steel industries of Europe and Britain make the United States steel industry look like a very healthy hypochondriac." But he also discounted any threat to European industry from what his report called widening American leadership in productivity.

14-Year-Old Boy Rapes, Strangles 2 Young Sisters

DETROIT (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was held without bond in the Wayne County Youth Home today, charged with the rape-murder of two young sisters as they walked home from school.

The girls — Deborah Luie Crowther, 8, and her sister Kimberly, 6 — were assaulted and strangled Friday as they walked across a field from school toward their home in the Detroit suburb of Wetland.

Authorities said the 14-year-old, whose name was withheld, had sniffed glue only a couple of hours before the double slaying.

Prosecutor William Calahan said that because of his age the boy could not be tried as an adult for any crime. Under Michigan law, a juvenile must be 15 or older before authorities can petition courts to allow an adult trial.

Therefore, Ryan argued, "the only reasonable and objective conclusion is that North American Aviation did not clear up the deficiencies pointed out in the Phillips report and that NASA did not exercise proper supervision thereafter."

He said "special temporary legislation should be enacted by the Congress to partially close this gap."

The steel industry launched a drive Feb. 8 for enactment of a temporary levy on steel imports in order to it said protect an essential defense industry and maintain living standards of American workers.

Curtis said, "Though the portion of the U.S. market taken by imports is larger, the total steel pie has increased so much that there has been no damage."

He said U.S. steel companies probably bought steel abroad rather than admit to old customers that they could not supply steel and perhaps lose them.

Curtis said "Conditions in the steel industries of Europe and Britain make the United States steel industry look like a very healthy hyochondriac." But he also discounted any threat to European industry from what his report called widening American leadership in productivity.

14-Year-Old Boy Rapes, Strangles 2 Young Sisters

DETROIT (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was held without bond in the Wayne County Youth Home today, charged with the rape-murder of two young sisters as they walked home from school.

The girls — Deborah Luile Crowther, 8, and her sister Kimberly, 6 — were assaulted and strangled Friday as they walked across a field from school toward their home in the Detroit suburb of Wetland.

Authorities said the 14-year-old, whose name was withheld, had sniffed glue only a couple of hours before the double slaying.

Prosecutor William Calahan said that because of his age the boy could not be tried as an adult for any crime. Under Michigan law, a juvenile must be 15 or older before authorities can petition courts to allow an adult trial.

Commission Favors Reduced Limit Along Road Section

A reduced speed limit on one section of the Circleville-Kings-ton Pike has been recommended by the Pickaway County Commissioners.

The stretch of road concerned is near the Elsea addition. A traffic survey was instigated earlier after residents in the area complained of speeding and accident danger near their homes.

The investigation was conducted by the Pickaway County Engineer Department. After studying the evaluation, commissioners said they feel the present 60-mile-per-hour limit through the housing area is unrealistic.

According to the solons, their next step will be to ask the Ohio director of highways to review the local survey and declare a reasonable speed limit.

THE STUDY concerned a section extending about 1.20 miles, starting at a point 200 feet south of the intersection with Ludwig-Dresbach Road and then northward.

Other business today included the receipt of a recommended road work program for 1967, submitted by the county engineer.

The total suggested program was listed at a cost of $754,700. The board outline of work to be done included bridge and culvert maintenance and construction.

The county's final road program each year is based on funds made available through distribution of auto license and gasoline tax money.

In the way of general discussion, the lawmakers indicated they would be willing to meet with Gov. James A. Rhodes concerning the possibilities of a joint airport program with Ross County.

Gov. Rhodes announced last week that he will personally push for a joint aviation facility for the two counties. He said he would do this when the current campaign for State Issues 1 and 2 is over.

The two issues will be voted on during Tuesday's primary election.

MARKET FALL Is Moderate

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined moderately in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

The averages showed losses but advances and decline of individual stock were about even.

Indications were that profit takers had stepped in after the market had advanced in 10 of its 11 previous sessions.

Brokers said anxiety over escalation of the war in Vietnam might also be a factor in the decline. On the other hand, they said, an increase in the price of home appliances and a rise in U.S. gold stocks could be considered bullish developments.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had lost .9 at 326.4 with industrial off 2.0, rails up .3 and utilities off .5.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 3.84 at 893.21.

The pre-school clinic for Walnut and Teays Valley School District has been scheduled to commence operations on May 11 from 8:45 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. at Walnut Twp. School.

Parents are requested to register children who will be 6-years-old by Sept. 1967.

Children who become six between Sept. 1 and Nov. 1 also are to be registered. However, these children will be given a readiness test later during the summer to determine if they will enter school in September.

Children who have not or cannot receive necessary shots for entrance in the first grade from their family physical may get them through the Pickaway County Health Department.

It was requested that all children should have birth certificates at the time of registration to confirm age.

Youngsters are to be brought to school by their parents. Because of the shots and possible after effects, they should not be permitted to ride home on the school buses, according to Theodore Snyder, school principal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There could come a time, says Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey, when the United States, fighting for survival, could ill afford conscientious objectors.

Hershey, who counts a "great many" c.o.'s among his friends, said he cautions them occasionally: "If we ever get in the lifeboat where everybody has to pull an oar, they will have to throw them overboard."

Hershey's views on conscientious objectors and other aspects of picking men for the draft were expressed to the House Appropriations Committee in February but not made public until Sunday.

The three-star general stood up for the principle of leaving in the hands of local draft boards the basic decision of who goes and who stays. The alternative, he said, is to centralize the system and allow perhaps one man to decide—"and then when he makes a mistake it is reflected in 4,000 boards."

This clinic will be held the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month.

Consistent with the patient's personal beliefs information, material, and education regarding family planning and birth control will be provided. These services will be offered to all married persons, persons contemplating marriage, not a minor, or minors contemplating marriage with parental consent who are unable to obtain family planning services from a private physician hospital, or clinic.

All patients will be examined by the physician in attendance before any medication is dispensed. Patients will pay for these services and supplies on a sliding scale, but no one will be denied service because of their inability to pay.

Bandits Get $2.1 Million Gold Ingots

LONDON (AP) — Bandits overpowered the crew of an armored car in London today and got away with gold bullion estimated to be worth $2.1 million, a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

He said the gold was in 140 ingots.

The armored vehicle was hijacked in the Islington district of North London.

Police said the truck's crew of three men was overpowered by the gang, who then drove away.

The vehicle was found abandoned in Kentish Town, about four miles away, with the crew tied up in the back.

The daring robbery was one of the biggest in Britain since the $7-million great train robbery in 1963.

One member of the truck's crew was taken to London's Middlesex Hospital with head and chest injuries.

The other two were taken to Moorfields Eye Hospital in London.

Police said the gang attacked with ammonia and beat up one of the men.

Police said the gold belonged to London banking firm of N. M. Rothschild and Sons.

Although full details were still not available, the crime appeared to have all the hallmarks of the smoothly run great train robbery.

The gang was reckoned to have full knowledge of the movement of such a large consignment of ullion.

The robbery was the biggest in London since a gang broke into a jewelry store and stole $700,000 worth of gold and gems last Jan. 30.

School Boycott Enters 4th Day

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio (AP) —The school-closing boycott by most of this city's public school teachers entered its fourth school day today with a seven-month-old restraining order apparently the only thing standing in the way of settling the dispute.

A weekend meeting between representatives of the Board of Education and the Classroom Teachers Association brought "substantial progress" in every area except the restraining order obtained last October prohibiting the association and the Ohio Education association from interfering with operation of the schools.

The areas of agreement included the demand by the teachers association for recognition by the board, the original issue in the dispute, according to Allen Martin, association president.

School board attorneys "agreed to suggest to the Martins Ferry board that it develop procedures to permit elected representatives of the CTA to talk with the board about problems of mutual concern," Martin said.

Meanwhile, board counsel Thomas Jones reiterated his threat Sunday to file contempt of court charges against the teachers today if they were not back on the job.

About 90 teachers, who have stayed away from the classroom since last Wednesday, countered that they had no plans to return until the dispute was settled.

"One board attorney insists on holding that restraining order over our heads as a threat," Martin said. "We cannot, and we will not, allow the board to further intimidate us with such unprofessional and unethical treatment. That restraining order must be lifted."

Jones said attorneys for the association had agreed Friday night to let the order stand.

A plan to reopen the high school today even if the boycott was not settled was called off because of a shortage of qualified high school teachers. It was reported that school officials had planned to staff the high school with elementary school teachers as concern mounted over the upcoming graduation for the senior class.

This Ohio River community of 12,000 had 133 teachers in its public schools, 129 of whom are association members.

Ohio Legislature

Solons Won't Be Back Until Election Night

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's lawmakers had the day off today with majority Republicans beating bushes in their districts for two GOP administration proposals on Tuesday's primary ballot.

The legislature normally returns from weekend recess on Monday night but leaders agreed on a Tuesday night return this week because of the election.

House members convene at 7 p.m. Tuesday, the Senate at 7:30.

Despite the abbreviated week, Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Miami and House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-4 Wood arranged a full schedule of committee hearings and floor sessions.

But Wednesday night, the lawmakers will take another break for a social with their wives at the Columbus Country Club.

Action is scheduled this week on two major bills—the state employe pay raise and an emergency bill designed to ban racial discrimination in employment for public projects.

The Senate votes Wednesday on the House-passed bill which would boost the pay of about 45,000 employes 10 per cent July 1 and another 5 per cent in July 1968. Senate amendments will send it back to the House for expected final approval.

The anti-bias employment bill, recommended for passage last week by the House Industry and Labor Committee, may be brought to the floor Thursday, sponsors said.

Under the bill, state contracts would be voided unless unions certifying workers for employment by contractors would guarantee that their ranks are open to all races.

Florida Suffers Severe Shortage of 1967 Rain

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida's peninsula—already drier than a strong martini—is getting just what the Florida Chamber of Commerce always predicts: warm, dry weather.

But Floridians are screaming for cool rain. For all of April, the state had no measurable rain. Some sections, now on forest fire alerts, haven't had rain since February.

Most of the Sunshine State hasn't ben this parched in a quarter century. Weathermen had to go back to 1898 to find the mark broken by the drought in the Tampa area.

Only a trace of rain has fallen on Tampa this year. The 1898 record for the first four months was .16 inches. Miami had .15 inches of rain in April compared with the previous record low of .33 inches in 1943 and an average of nearly four inches for the month.

The Weather Bureau says rainfall in the state for the year is 35 to 40 per cent below normal.

In a little Baptist church at Lake Alfred Sunday the congregation held a special prayer service for rain to "heal their land."

Key West already is rationing water, threatening to shut off anyone who wastes it.

Miami is weighing the idea of a ban on car washing and lawn sprinkling.

Everglades waterholes have dried and officials at the national park are pumping drinking water to animals at a slough on Anhinga Trail.

In Collier County, just north of the park, thousands of acres have burned off in recent week while firemen fought only blazes that threatened populaed area.

Irrigation pumps worked overtime in the Redlands farming areas near Miami but tomato packing houses were closed down.

In Lake Alfred, where no rain has fallen in the last six weeks, the Rev. James P. Dawson, pastor of the Echo Terrace Baptist church, read from the Old Testament:

"If My people which are called by My name shall humble themselves and pray and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sins and will heal their land."

Dawson said, "We just want the Lord to be merciful and give us some rain. We will ask the people who believe in the power of prayer and faith and God to pray for rain."

But the weathermen peeked at their radars and predicted no rain.

Rabbi Mark Dies

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rabbi Jerome Mark, who was called as an expert witness in the famed Scopes "Monkey trial" at Dayton, Tenn. in 1925, died Sunday after a lengthy illness. He would have been 76 today. During the trial he was called to give an interpretation of the Hebrew scriptures.

At least 19 persons were killed in Ohio traffic over the weekend, the great majority of them young people of a list also including a Lucas County sheriff's deputy.

The officer's car was hit from behind as he began a left turn in one of the Sunday night accidents which brought the final tally for the 54-hour weekend up to that of the previous weekend.

The count the April 23 weekend was 19, and that of the weekend before that was 20.

All but three or four of this past survey period's victims were age 25 and under.

Each death occurred in a separate accident.

The Weather Bureau says rainfall in the state for the year is 35 to 40 per cent below normal.

In a little Baptist church at Lake Alfred Sunday the congregation held a special prayer service for rain to "heal their land."

Key West already is rationing water, threatening to shut off anyone who wastes it.

Miami is weighing the idea of a ban on car washing and lawn sprinkling.

Everglades waterholes have dried and officials at the national park are pumping drinking water to animals at a slough on Anhinga Trail.

In Collier County, just north of the park, thousand of acres have burned off in recent week while firemen fought only blazes that threatened populated areas.

Irrigation pumps worked overtime in the Redlands farming areas near Miami but tomato packing houses were closed down.

In Lake Alfred, where no rain has fallen in the last six weeks, the Rev. James P. Dawson, pastor of the Echo Terrace Baptist church, read from the Old Testament:

"If My people which are called by My name shall humble themselves and pray and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sins and will heal their land."

Dawson said, "We just want the Lord to be merciful and give us some rain. We will ask the people who believe in the power of prayer and faith and God to pray for rain."

But the weathermen peeked at their radars and predicted no rain.

Weekend Traffic Death Toll 19

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 19 persons were killed in Ohio traffic over the weekend, the great majority of them young people of a list also including a Lucas County sheriff's deputy.

The officer's car was hit from behind as he began a left turn in one of the Sunday night accidents which brought the final tally for the 54-hour weekend up to that of the previous weekend.

The count the April 23 weekend was 19, and that of the weekend before that was 20.

All but three or four of this past survey period's victims were age 25 and under.

Each death occurred in a separate accident.

When Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia broke with the Soviet Union in 1948, the West hailed the move as a significant crack in the iron curtain. Washington has lavished hundreds of millions of dollars in aid to Tito.

Whatever the outside world may have thought of the Tito regime, Yugoslavia author Mihaljo Mihajlov didn't like what he saw from the inside. He wrote articles of criticism, some of which were published abroad.

Originally imprisoned for a year for defaming the system, he has now received an additional four and a half years sentence on similar charges and has been barred from all political activity for four years thereafter.

Tito may have shown in 1948, as Russia and China have done since, that communists can disagree on methods and dogma. But he has also shown in the Mihajlov case that intolerance of criticism is a tie common to all dictators.

Defeat for Bloc

The Afro-Asian - Communist bloc on the United Nations Colonialism Committee suffered a severe tactical defeat when it backed away from a vote on whether to include the subject of Puerto Rico's status on its agenda as the United States tried to force a showdown on the issue.

This group has professed to see Puerto Rico in galling subjection to the United States. The fact that the islanders are to have a plebiscite in July to determine their status is dismissed by this bloc as a device with which Washington hopes to hold onto its "colony."

The absurdity of this is so obvious it hardly deserves comment. The Puerto Ricans can decide their future without the help of this UN faction, which could well concern itself with more legitimate problems — such as what to do about the dozen or so nations the USSR holds in bondage.

Book Block

While the general talk is of Nixon and Romney, it is becoming fashionable in Washington pundit circles to say that that Nelson Rockefeller may run off with the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination after all. The reasons offered are geometrical in their precision. Nixon, so the argument goes, lacks a power base in his own state and has a record for losing the big ones. Despite the fact that he knows foreign affairs and is probably the best qualified Republican on the horizon, he will have a hard time getting more than 500 delegates. Romney, who has a power base and is a proved winner locally, will fail, so the pundits aver, because of his uncertain handling of foreign issues. This leaves it open to Rockefeller, who would provide three essential things: (1) continuity in Republican foreign policy; (2) the vote-getting assurance provided by a winning record in New York State, and (3) plenty of money to finance his own campaign.

It sounds convincing, and the governor of Maryland, among others, is impressed. But publication this week of F. Clifton White's long-awaited "Suite 3505: The Story of the Draft Goldwater Movement" makes one doubtful of the pro-Rockefeller prognosis for one reason: the deep-seated animosities of those who consider that Rockefeller, more than anyone else, put the knife into Goldwater's back in 1964.

Mr. White's book is a bitter-sweet account of the most remarkable pre-convention campaign that this country has ever seen. It is a story of how a mood and a technician met to win a predestined victory in a political convention. But the technician who knew how to exploit the mood suddenly discovered that events never move in a straight line. So the technician's book turns into a Greek tragedy in which fate, as the sum total of the flaws of men, robbed the Republican conservatism of a victory in the final show in November of 1964.

Looking back, Clifton White comes up with a multiple causation theory to explain Goldwater's defeat. The country had been stunned by the murder of Kennedy, which meant that Johnson, as the Kennedy heir, had sympathy going for him. Then there was the touchiness of those who were frightened by Goldwater's willingness to discuss the possible use of atomic power in warfare. But to Mr. White, Goldwater's iron-hard words, "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice," which seemed to preclude the Churchillian virtue of magnanimity in victory, were the tip-off to the "deeper difficulties that had beset the Goldwater camp since the assassination of President Kennedy."

Not the least of the difficulties, says White, was the fact that Goldwater, "from the day he announced his candidacy onward, never had anyone around him who could advise him on the subtle nuances of American politics."

This mistake was fated, for it was in Goldwater's character to push Clifton White away from him in favor of the advisory group that became known as the "Arizona Mafia." It is quite obvious from everything in White's book that Goldwater never wanted to run for President and resented being dragged on. He was trapped into it by his own words, which had made him the symbol of a national hunger.

After the convention, he could have rejected White and the others of the Draft Goldwater movement for unconscious reasons. White, after all, was the human agent of all those forces that had put Goldwater on the spot. This is not to say that Barry didn't want conservatism to win. As Karl Hess has said in another book about the 1964 campaign, "A Cause That Will Triumph," Goldwater's commitment to the cause led him to run an "educational" show. But it was without personal desire, and the lack of personal willingness showed through.

Above all, Goldwater hated what other Republicans — Rockefeller, Scranton, Romney — did to him. He had thought of Nelson Rockefeller in particular as his friend. The "extremism in defense of liberty is no vice" crack in the acceptance speech was pitched at Rockefeller more than at Scranton and Romney, who were relatively late bloomers as opponents.

Goldwater's feeling of hurt about Rockefeller is one reason to think that if Nixon can't get the 1968 nomination, the conservative vote will be thrown to some dark horse who played no big part in the animosities of 1964. Clifton White's book has special relevance in showing how deep the continuing hurt of Goldwater and the conservatives goes.

What is the immediate home remedy for a bump on the head that is beginning to turn black and blue?

A black and blue mark on the head, or anywhere on the body, means that a blood vessel has been broken by the injury and that blood is seeping into the soft tissues. The very first and immediate treatment should be pressure over the site of the injury.

Then ice packs should be used in order to slow down the seepage of blood. This combination generally is excellent for injuries.

When the bleeding has stopped, as it does with pressure after a half hour or more, heat can later be applied to hasten the recovery of the hurt tissues. Heat helps to absorb the blood under the skin more rapidly and facilitates the return of the soft tissues to their normal condition.

During the past ten years a new idea has been used successfully for the more rapid absorption of blood after an injury. A special type of enzyme is now taken in tablet form.

In a very complex way these enzymes help to reduce the swelling and make the black and blue marks disappear more rapidly. Technically these marks are known as ecchymoses. Many a good and expensive steak has been wasted when it was applied to the "shiner" to make it disappear quickly.

Actually, it made good sense from a medical point of view. The beef steak was wet but did no more good than an ordinary cold compress.

GOOD POSTURE

DR. HERMAN H. SHUTTLEWORTH

Chiropractor

A great contribution to the public health is being made by the chiropractic profession of America by their educational campaign to improve the posture of citizens and thus increase the efficiency of all our workers. Poor posture habits are responsible not only for many days of lost time, but for poor response to job needs and eventually for a shortened life of top efficiency.

The problem of poor posture and the low efficiency of workers which it brings on can best be approached in two ways:

The first is a long, careful, and well-planned program to teach Americans how to walk and stand and sit in ways which will promote health and efficiency. The chiropractic profession has such an educational program under way, and it is having its effect.

However, making a nation posture-conscious takes time. Meanwhile, many individual postural faults can be helped by direct treatment, or the bad effects can be modified or eliminated.

In both programs individual doctors of chiropractic play a decisive and important role. They may be contacted on how to carry out the program of postural and spinal education. They are eager to explain to their patients how to walk, stand, sit and sleep for the best effect on health.

And they are specialists in relieving the bad results of poor posture by correcting the misalignments of the spine. Every doctor of chiropractic knows that the most minor displacements in the spinal column can bring on sharp pains, often far removed from the spine itself, which disappear under chiropractic treatment.

Correct posture is a result of holding your body in a balanced position. The easiest way to attain it is to think of an imaginary line running (side view) from the tip of the skull through your neck, shoulders, hips, knees, and insteps. When the head is bent forward, the abdomen thrust out, or the back bent, the line of gravity is shifted, and a strain placed on muscles to keep the body from falling.

When you stand straight your head should be balanced and erect. Your shoulders are relaxed and low; your chest is held high. Your lower back should curve to just a slight degree. Your abdomen should be flat. Have your knees straight but not stiff, and feel your weight in the outer borders of your feet.

You should sit with your feet flat on the floor. Do not slump in a chair, but keep your back straight and your abdomen flat. As in standing, your head should be erect and well balanced. When you lean forward, lean from the hips, not from the waist.

In walking, movement should start at the hips. Your head and upper part of your body should remain at right angles to the ground. Swing your arms freely. Look ahead, never down. Point your toes straight ahead or slightly inward, never outward. Knees should be relaxed and free.

All these characteristics and movements, the chiropractic profession has found, contribute to proper posture, body balance, and efficient performance and better health.

It should be pointed out that the kind of mattress you use has a lot to do with posture, too. Soft beds are not beneficial. Your mattress should be firm, or at least you should sleep with a bed board.

Surveys among school children indicate that more than 76% have spinal defects or postural distortions in some degree.

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic.

A great contribution to the view from the tip of the skull through your neck, shoulders, hips, knees, and insteps. When the head is bent forward, the abdomen thrust out, or the back bent, the line of gravity is shifted, and a strain placed on muscles to keep the body from falling.

When you stand straight your head should be balanced and erect. Your shoulders are relaxed and low; your chest is held high. Your lower back should curve to just a slight degree. Your abdomen should be flat. Have your knees straight but not stiff, and feel your weight in the outer borders of your feet.

You should sit with your feet flat on the floor. Do not slump in a chair, but keep your back straight and your abdomen flat. As in standing, your head should be erect and well balanced. When you lean forward, lean from the hips, not from the waist.

In walking, movement should start at the hips. Your head and upper part of your body should remain at right angles to the ground. Swing your arms freely. Look ahead, never down. Point your toes straight ahead or slightly inward, never outward. Knees should be relaxed and free.

All these characteristics and movements, the chiropractic profession has found, contribute to proper posture, body balance, and efficient performance and better health.

It should be pointed out that the kind of mattress you use has a lot to do with posture, too. Soft beds are not beneficial. Your mattress should be firm, or at least you should sleep with a bed board.

Surveys among school children indicate that more than 76% have spinal defects or postural distortions in some degree.

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic.

However, making a nation posture-conscious takes time. Meanwhile, many individual postural faults can be helped by direct treatment, or the bad effects can be modified or eliminated.

In both programs individual doctors of chiropractic play a decisive and important role. They are eager to explain to their patients how to walk, stand, sit and sleep for the best effect on health.

And they are specialists in relieving the bad results of poor posture by correcting the misalignments of the spine. Every doctor of chiropractic knows that the most minor displacements in the spinal column can bring on sharp pains, often far removed from the spine itself, which disappear under chiropractic treatment.

Correct posture is a result of holding your body in a balanced position. The easiest way to attain it is to think of an

5 Women Opponents of War Send Mother's Day Cards

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Women who oppose the war in Vietnam but balk at walking a picket line are sending a Mother's Day card instead to President Johnson.

Its simple message: "War is not healthy for children and other living things. Talk peace."

The protest is the crating of

"Another Mother For Peace," a volunteer group formed five weeks ago at the home of Barbara Avedon, an Oscar-winning film and television writer.

Since then, more than 175,000 cards have been sold throughout the country. Mrs. Avedon hopes one million will reach Washington by May 14.

Working day and night to fill the orders are movie and television personalities and the wives of producers, directors, lawyers and doctors.

The mailing operation fills the second floor of an office building in a fashionable business district. Orders already are in from New York, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Texas and many other states.

Said Mrs. Avedon: "It all started when I had some Hollywood friends over to see my son en's clubs and other organizations. Mrs. Avedon and the others used their Christmas mailing lists to send them to friends.

The gently worded cards, free of polemics, were a big success. Inside, the cards continue:

"For my Mother's Day gift this year I don't want candy or flowers. I want an end to killing. We who have given life must be dedicated to preserving it. Please, talk peace."

Other volunteers are actresses Whitney Blake, Lauren Bacall, Janice Rule (Mrs. Ben Gazzarra) and Donna Winters, plus the wives of Dean Martin, Dick Van Dyke and Herschel Bernardi.

The wife of conductor Leonard Bernstein offered help from New York, and an order came from Gloria Vanderbilt.

HOME FIRES BURNING—Mrs. Dorothy Nye (left) and a neighbor, Nancy d'Amico, sit across the street as Mrs. Nye's mother's house is burned by firemen in Oak Lawn, Ill. The dwelling was ruled unsafe and beyond rehabilitation after a death-dealing tornado struck the community.

Dust Cover

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — One hazard facing helicopter crews in Vietnam — blinding clouds of dust stirred up by the rotor blades on takeoff and landing — has been solved with the use of vinyl-surfaced tarpaulins to blanket landing areas.

The Navy recently purchased 165 of the protective tarpaulins from Goodyear to be used on helicopter landing sites. They keep down dust and vegetation which had been hampering emergency rescue and other operations.

Material used in the 110 by 200-foot protective coverings consists of vinyl film laminated to both sides of a nylon scrim. The material is noted for its high strength and resistance to tear, abrasion, burns, mildew and fungus.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Tell Sonny To Get Off Floor

DEAR ABBY: I have a son-in-law who is nearly 30 years old. He is wonderful to me, but he gets on my nerves when he is at my house, which is quite often.

The problem is, he wrestles with my daughter (his wife) on the living room floor. She gets angry and tells him to quit, but it does no good. Easter Sunday they tipped over an end table and smashed a lamp, and then he broke the leg off a dining room chair. He said he was sorry and tried to fix it. He doesn't act like that over at his mother's place, so why do it here.

I don't say anything. I just ignore it as I wouldn't want to hurt his feelings, but I wish I knew why he acts this way in my house.

MOTHER-IN-LAW
DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW: Your son-in-law is emotionally still a "big baby," who wants attention, and this is his way of literally "getting the floor." He doesn't act that way at his mother's house because she wouldn't put up with it. Don't ignore it. Tell him to "work out" his aggressions in a gym and leave your daughter alone, or the next "leg" he breaks could be hers.

DEAR ABBY: If that "charming old world custom" of bringing a small gift to the hostess ever takes hold in this country, so help me, I'm moving out!

The "charming" custom of tipping everybody in sight is bad enough, but for a hostess to expect her guests to go shopping for some useless trinket to show appreciation for a dinner invitation is too much.

I guess my attitude makes me unfriendly and thoughtless, so I'll have to find my friends among people who think that my issuing and accepting invitations is sufficient sign of friendship.

SOURPUSS
DEAR ABBY: Referring to your answer to the foreign-born couple who were dismayed because Americans do not follow the "charming, old world custom" of taking a small gift to the hostess when they come for dinner:

Since when is it an "old world" custom? I am a fourth generation American, and I have never gone to anyone's home for dinner (or even an outdoor barbecue) without a gift for my hostess.

So pull in your horns, Abby. We Americans are not a bunch of ninnyes who don't know enough to show our appreciation for a dinner invitation.

Actress Joanie Woodward wrote a letter to go with the cards, asking the recipient to drum up support through wom-

DAR Hears Report Of Continental Congress

Reports of The 76th. Continental Congress of The National Society Daughters of The American Revolution was the special program for the April 25th. meeting of Pickaway Plains Chapter, held in the Lutheran Parish Hall.

Mrs. Judd H. Dresbach, Regent and Miss Florence Brown were two of the 2,656 members representing 48 different states, who attended this session held at Constitution Hall in Washington D. C., Apr. 7th through 21st.

In their report, Miss Brown and Mrs. Dresbach mentioned the 15 Resolutions proposed and adopted to help preserve and advance citizenship and patriotism, the gain of 2,000 new members for the year with 508 new ancestral lines established and the White House tour.

"Be Ye Doers of The Word and Not Hearers Only" was the theme used for all Congress programs. For a harmonious beginning the U. S. Marine Band presented a concert. Among the several speakers were Mrs. William H. Sullivan, Jr., President General of the National Society; Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, who talked concerning "Why Positive Thinking Gets Positive Results," Dean Clarence Manion, Author, Lawyer, Lecturer, and Commentator, who used for his theme — "A New Direction for National Defense — Our Strength Has Become Our Weakness"; and Major General Thomas Lane, one of McArthur's staff in the Pacific, who talked concerning "The Price of Peace in Viet Nam."

Mrs. Dresbach presided for the ritualistic opening and routine business. Mrs. Clarence McAbee led in recognition of the flag and Mrs. W. Emerson Downing served as Chaplain.

All were in accord with the Board's recommendation that Pickaway Plains Chapter relinquish their share of funds in Assoc. of Women's Club Common fund for use by Pickaway County Historical Society for the Museum. Plans were made to furnish the official flag for use by The Historical Society in the Museum.

Invitations were read from: Nathaniel Massey Chapter, Chillicothe area, for a tour visit

SYDNEY (AP) — Tuberculosis is now virtually nonexistent in Australia according to figures released recently by the Tuberculosis Division of the Commonwealth Department of Health.

As a result, 2,539 hospital beds reserved for tuberculosis patients have been allocated to other uses.

Failure to undergo x-rays in areas proclaimed by the state departments of health can bring a maximum fine of 200 Australian dollars ($224 U. S.).

Senior Girls Honored by DKG At Luncheon

Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma celebrated their Founder's Day with a luncheon honoring the senior girls of Circleville and Pickaway County high schools who are planning to become teachers. Other guests attending the Saturday luncheon at Pickaway Arms were DKG's from neighboring chapters in Lancaster, Washington Court House and Chillicothe.

A special expression of the observance was the presence of Miss Margaret Boyd, Past International President and present Executive Secretary of Delta Kappa Gamma of Ohio. Miss Boyd, who is from Steubenville, Ohio, presented a report of her activities as the recipient of the Delta Kappa Gamma World Study Grant in 1965. She spent six months studying and traveling in the Middle East, dedicated to the cause of uniting women educators of the world.

In fulfillment of her recommendation, Delta Kappa Gamma is sponsoring a study seminar at the Beirut College for Women this summer to learn about schooling for women around the world and to evaluate educational policies.

Using the theme, "It's Tulip Time", the favors were mint cups on a tulip bed from which sprouted blossoms in lovely shades of lilac and red. The programs were tulip cut-outs and were the work of the table decorations committee: Ann Towler, chairman, Marcella Kern, Ruth Neff, Garnet Ridgeway and Nancy Call.

Lois Brobst arranged a program which included group singing, a passage from "The Glass Menagerie", recited by Anne Spicer and a humorous reading about Cinderella by Susan Bennett.

Ruth Tootle introduced the future teachers from Teays Valley, Gloria Gabriel introduced the girls from Logan Elm, and Margaret Evans introduced those from Westfall and Circleville High Schools.

Miss Amy Miga was general chairman for the luncheon and presented gifts of appreciation to guests who appeared on the program. Everyone present received a gift from the L. M. Butch Co.

If you are trying an old-fashioned cake recipe that calls for a d d i n g "grated unsweetened chocolate" to a cake batter, be sure to grate the chocolate coarsely so it will remain in small flecks. If you grate the chocolate fine, it is likely to melt and amalgamate completely with the batter.

DAR Hears Report Of Continental Congress

Reports of The 76th Continental Congress of The National Society Daughters of The American Revolution was the special program for the April 25th meeting of Pickaway Plains Chapter, held in the Lutheran Parish Hall.

Mrs. Judd H. Dresbach, Regent and Miss Florence Brown were two of the 2,656 members representing 48 different states, who attended this session held at Constitution Hall in Washington D. C., Apr. 7th through 21st.

In their report, Miss Brown and Mrs. Dresbach mentioned the 15 Resolutions proposed and adopted to help preserve and advance citizenship and patriotism, the gain of 2,000 new members for the year with 508 new ancestral lines established and the White House tour.

"Be Ye Doers of The Word and Not Hearers Only" was the theme used for all Congress programs. For a harmonious beginning the U. S. Marine Band presented a concert. Among the several speakers were Mrs. William H. Sullivan, Jr., President General of the National Society; Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, who talked concerning "Why Positive Thinking Gets Positive Results," Dean Clarence Manion, Author, Lecturer, and Commentator, who used for his theme — "A New Direction for National Defense — Our Strength Has Become Our Weakness"; and Major General Thomas Lane, one of McArthur's staff in the Pacific, who talked concerning "The Price of Peace in Viet Nam."

Mrs. Dresbach presided for the ritualistic opening and routine business. Mrs. Clarence McAbee led in recognition of the flag and Mrs. W. Emerson Downing served as Chaplain.

All were in accord with the Board's recommendation that Pickaway Plains Chapter relinquish their share of funds in Assoc. of Women's Club Common fund for use by Pickaway County Historical Society for the Museum. Plans were made to furnish the official flag for use by The Historical Society in the Museum.

Invitations were read from: Nathaniel Massey Chapter, Chillicothe area, for a tour visit

The next meeting, May 16th will be a Guest Luncheon at the L and K Restaurant with Mrs. Carl W. Keitzman, State Regent of Ohio Society of N. S. DAR, the guest speaker.

Annual reports of the local Chapter will be given at the June meeting for which Mrs. Harold Bowers of Ashville, will be hostess.

Senior Girls Honored by DKG At Luncheon

Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma celebrated their Founder's Day with a luncheon honoring the senior girls of Circleville and Pickaway County high schools who are planning to become teachers. Other guests attending the Saturday luncheon at Pickaway Arms were DKG's from neighboring chapters in Lancaster, Washington Court House and Chillicothe.

A special expression of the observance was the presence of Miss Margaret Boyd, Past International President and present Executive Secretary of Delta Kappa Gamma of Ohio. Miss Boyd, who is from Steubenville, Ohio, presented a report of her activities as the recipient of the Delta Kappa Gamma World Study Grant in 1965. She spent six months studying and traveling in the Middle East, dedicated to the cause of uniting women educators of the world. In fulfillment of her recommendation, Delta Kappa Gamma is sponsoring a study seminar at the Beirut College for Women this summer to learn about schooling for women around the world and to evaluate educational policies.

Using the theme, "It's Tulip Time", the favors were mint cups on a tulip bed from which sprouted blossoms in lovely shades of lilac and red. The programs were tulip cut-outs and were the work of the table decorations committee: Ann Towler, chairman, Marcella Kern, Ruth Neff, Garnet Ridgeway and Nancy Call.

Lois Brobst arranged a program which included group singing, a passage from "The Glass Menagerie", recited by Anne Spicer and a humorous reading about Cinderella by Susan Bennett.

Ruth Tootle introduced the future teachers from Teays Valley, Gloria Gabriel introduced the girls from Logan Elm, and Margaret Evans introduced those from Westfall and Circleville High Schools.

Miss Amy Miga was general chairman for the luncheon and presented gifts of appreciation to guests who appeared on the program. Everyone present received a gift from the L. M. Butch Co.

Business Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. McGuire, 833 Atwater Ave., attended the Motorist Mutual Insurance Company's 38th Agents' Annual Meeting April 28 and 29 at the Neil House in Columbus.

Seven hundred leading agents, employees, and their wives from Ohio and five surrounding states participated in the two-day program.

The sessions began Friday night with the annual banquet for honor club agents and was followed by an initiation ceremony inducting new agents who qualified for membership.

On Saturday the management staff were hosts at a noon luncheon honoring agents who had written business fifty of the fifty-two weeks during 1966. A sales seminar devoted to education in the fire, casualty, and life fields was conducted in the afternoon.

James W. Huffman, president of Motorists Mutual, presided over the Saturday night banquet. Irv Wermont, nationally known speaker and author, presented the address.

Claude Wickard Accident Victim

DELPHI, Ind. (AP) — Claude R. Wickard, a secretary of agriculture under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was killed Saturday in an automobile-truck collision west of here. Wickard served as secretary of agriculture from 1940 to 1945. In recent years he operated a farm.

House, has 80 rooms, a restaurant, a snack-bar, cafes gift shops and a ferry service between Herm and Guernsey. The ferry ties up at what is called the smallest harbor in the world — a tiny stone quay hardly longer than the ferry-boat itself.

Walking from the landing pier to the hotel one sees a small, round stone building with a conical roof. This, the world's smallest prison, has a diameter of seven feet and is only 10 feet high. But it hasn't been used for a prison for years. Today, it's a shed for storing garden tools.

Otherwise, Herm is very much like the neighboring Channel Islands. Farms with dairy cattle abound, bringing the resident population and visitors fresh milk as well as supplying a surplus to export. Wildflowers grow in profusion, and there are many sub-tropical trees and plants, as well as Oriental; Australian eucalyptus, Japanese cacti and New Zealand flax have been planted by visitors and all thrive on the island. Bulbs, for spring plants, are grown commercially.

More probable is that the shells were discharged from the ballast of the many ships which came to Herm from tropical waters—including a great many pirate vessels — and discharged along the island's coastline. Shells are found on Herm which can be found nowhere else in the British Isles.

centrates on the future for tips and scours the past for lessons, but often ignores the present entirely.

Trading in the stock of General Motors, the nation's largest manufacturer, provides an example.

GM reported on April 26 a 34.5 per cent drop in quarterly earnings. The next day, however, it stock rose $1.50 to $84.75, its highest 1967 price to that date.

Liberace's Younger Brother Found Dead

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — Rudolph Liberace, 36, young brother of pianist Liberace and a film editor at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, died Sunday, apparently of natural causes. His body was found in a motel.

It closed the week with another gain to $86.50.

The obvious lesson, one that most people understand but sometimes forget, is that the market does not deal with the present alone. More often, it tries to forecast what the future will bring.

Obviously also, it frequently is wrong. Otherwise all stock market pundits would be winners, which we know them not to be. However, the market does seem to have foretold the troubles of the automakers.

Early in 1966 GM stock sold at $108.25. Evidence then accumulated that future car sales might slacken. The price nosedived to $65.62. Now, in the relatively poor GM earnings report, we seem to have verification that the stock market anticipated correctly.

Nobody can say what the future holds, but buyers of GM stock began a few months ago to ignore the presence of bad news. They began bidding up the price in anticipation of a return to good times, and GM now sells at about $20 above its 1966 low.

This entire business of anticipating news, "discounting" it, sometimes cause consternation among small investors.

There is considerable belief, in fact, that the market as a whole forecasts the economy as a whole. A rising market supposedly presages an expanding economy. A shrinking market is said to precede a recession.

This theory leaks. It was all wet, for instance in 1962, when a plummeting market seemed to foretell bad times. Instead, the existing boom became a super-boom.

The New York Stock Exchange Index is now at an all-time high. Last Thursday it reached $51.45, topping the previous high of $51.06 on Feb. 9, 1966. It closed the week with still another record at $51.54. In fact, since the low of Oct. 7, 1966 it has risen 30 per cent.

These high averages certainly do not reflect the present economy the past six years. But presumably they represent an expectation of the future.

Herm's "sandy" beach is really crushed seashells.

Tourists Find Island of Herm

By STEVE LIBBY
Central Press Association
Correspondent

The people of the Channel Islands, on Europe's fringe, are neither British nor French, but they owe their allegiance to the British Crown. They are virtually part of Continental Europe, but the people are not at all continental. Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, Sark and Herm — and lesser islets called Humps, Jethou and Brechou — are all washed by the waters of the English Channel's Bay of Saint Malo, yet each has its distinct personality.

Herm, one of the lesser known of the group, is unusual for many reasons. It has, among its 320 acres, a "sand" beach consisting of crushed tropical seashells. It has its own postal service. Its harbor is among the smallest in the world. It has only one hotel. And its seven-foot prison, long since abandoned from the purpose for which it was built, is the smallest in the world.

Herm is entirely controlled by a tenant who holds the island under lease from the Guernsey States. Since 1949 the tenants Maj. Peter Wood and his wife who have set about making the island a productive holiday resort.

For a few years following World War I, novelist Sir Compton Mackenzie was tenant, and he was followed by Lord Perry. During World War II it was farmed by the states of Guernsey, who purchased it from the British government 20 years ago and leased it to A. G. Jeffries. Unable to secure postal facilities for Herm, Jeffries instituted his own mail stamps.

Valid only between Herm and the neighboring island of Guernsey, Herm's stamps are placed on the back of letters and packages, and on the left-hand corner of post cards. They may not bear the word "postage," and must not purport to be official stamps. And they must be cancelled in blue ink, rather than black. Thousands of collectors around the world have unused Herm Island stamps, but only a few own cancelled copies!

Herm also had Europe's last pigeon mail service, instituted in 1949 to carry urgent letters to Guernsey at a charge of one shilling (14 cents) per letter. Messages were written on lightweight rice paper and inserted into tiny capsules for the three-mile pigeon flight to Guernsey, but later the same year the pigeon mail service became outdated: a radio-telephone service was installed.

That same year, Jeffries died and the lease passed on to Major and Mrs. Wood.

Herm's "sand" bathing beach isn't sand at all. It's a half-mile stretch of powdered seashells, most of them tropical. One theory, improbable though it may be, is that the shells were carried north by the Gulf Stream and eventually washed up to Herm.

More probable is that the shells were discharged from the ballast of the many ships which came to Herm from tropical waters—including a great many pirate vessels — and discharged along the island's coastline. Shells are found on Herm which can be found nowhere else in the British Isles.

The people of the Channel Islands, on Europe's fringe, are neither British nor French, but they owe their allegiance to the British Crown. They are virtually part of Continental Europe, but the people are not at all continental. Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, Sark and Herm—and lesser islets called Humps, Jethou and Brechou—are all washed by the waters of the English Channel's Bay of Saint Malo, yet each has its distinct personality.

Herm, one of the lesser known of the group, is unusual for many reasons. It has, among its 320 acres, a "sandy" beach consisting of crushed tropical seashells. It has its own postal service. Its harbor is among the smallest in the world. It has only one hotel. And its seven-foot prison, long since abandoned from the purpose for which it was built, is the smallest in the world.

Herm is entirely controlled by a tenant who holds the island under lease from the Guernsey States. Since 1949 the tenants Maj. Peter Wood and his wife who have set about making the island a productive holiday resort.

For a few years following World War I, novelist Sir Compton Mackenzie was tenant, and he was followed by Lord Perry. During World War II it was farmed by the states of Guernsey, who purchased it from the British government 20 years ago and leased it to A. G. Jeffries. Unable to secure postal facilities for Herm, Jeffries instituted his own mail stamps.

Valid only between Herm and the neighboring island of Guernsey, Herm's stamps are placed on the back of letters and packages, and on the left-hand corner of post cards. They may not bear the word "postage," and must not purport to be official stamps. And they must be cancelled in blue ink, rather than black. Thousands of collectors around the world have unused Herm Island stamps, but only a few own cancelled copies!

Herm also had Europe's last pigeon mail service, instituted in 1949 to carry urgent letters to Guernsey at a charge of one shilling (14 cents) per letter. Messages were written on lightweight rice paper and inserted into tiny capsules for the three-mile pigeon flight to Guernsey, but later the same year the pigeon mail service became outdated: a radio-telephone service was installed.

That same year, Jeffries died and the lease passed on to Major and Mrs. Wood.

Herm's "sandy" bathing beach isn't sand at all. It's a half-mile stretch of powdered seashells, most of them tropical. One theory, improbable though it may be, is that the shells were carried north by the Gulf Stream and eventually washed up to Herm.

More probable is that the shells were discharged from the ballast of the many ships which came to Herm from tropical waters—including a great many pirate vessels—and discharged along the island's coastline. Shells are found on Herm which can be found nowhere else in the British Isles.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — In this peculiar war, dragging along as if time didn't count and the two sides couldn't hear each other, the fighting gets tougher, a little bit now, a little bit then, until it is a terrible war.

Getting tougher bit by bit is called escalation, a high-sounding phrase for stepping it up, and both sides, the United States and North Vietnam, have stepped it up.

It's like the heavyweight title

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio conditions:

Showers and thundershowers were general across the state Sunday night but rainfall amounts were mostly light except at Cincinnati where almost half an inch was measured.

Nighttime temperatures dropped only into the 50s and 60s.

It would be mostly cloudy, windy, warm and humid today with scattered showers and thundershowers continuing. There might also, however, be occasional sunshine.

An approaching cold front will bring an end to the thundershowers tonight but a few light showers may linger into Tuesday.

Temperatures will be lower on Tuesday with high readings in the 50s and 60s and falling temperatures in the afternoon.

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy, warm; tonight, showers and scattered thundershowers likely, low in lower 50s. Tuesday partly cloudy, cooler, high in lower 60s.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Showers ending, turning cooler tonight, low in upper 40s. Tuesday partly cloudy, cooler, high in lower 60s.

NORTHEAST OHIO—Considerable cloudiness, rather windy, warm tonight with showers and scattered thundershowers ending by late tonight; low in 50s. Gradually decreasing cloudiness and cooler Tuesday.

bout between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain 78 years ago in Mississippi, the last bare-knuckle match of its kind under the old London Prize Ring rules which put no time limit on a fight.

It didn't make any difference how many times a fighter was knocked down. He lost when he was too beaten to punch any more or get up any more. It took Sullivan 75 rounds to get Kilrain into that condition.

Once more the United States looks ready to escalate again, although nobody is saying so exactly. But the groundwork for it has been laid over weeks and months.

Last week Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in Vietnam, talked twice in this country, and Henry Cabot Lodge, the just-retired U.S. Ambassador to Vietnam, gave an interview.

What they did was let the American people know, by saying the end was not in sight, that victory won't come soon or easy. Or, to put it in the words of the Senate's Democratic leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the war is "going to get worse before it gets better."

If all this is considered a way of preparing the Congress and the people for a step-up in the war, the real conditioning is spread over a longer time, starting earlier this year with President Johnson's frustrations in trying to get the enemy to talk peace.

While there is some intense dissatisfaction with America being in the war at all, there is also increasing impatience to get the war over with. And Johnson and the State Department have presented this country as having been very patient, perhaps too patient.

It was last February that Johnson called a bombing pause to see if North Vietnam would talk peace, and even sent a letter to Ho Chin Minh, leader of North Vietnam, only to get a swift rebuff.

Last week Secretary of State Dean Rusk said there had been 28 efforts to get the North to negotiate but that the answer was always no. Johnson and

By James Marlow

Rusk over many weeks went to great pains to explain they can't get the North to listen.

Thus, in the eyes of the world, the United States has put itself in the position of trying every which way to put sense in the north's head but to no avail.

That can serve now, if the United States starts to escalate, as a reasonable explanation for doing it.

The stepping up started last week when U.S. bombers hit MIG bases in North Vietnam but that probably wasn't half as much an indicator of worse to come as what Westmoreland said.

In order to bring the war to an end, he said, the United States must put maximum pressure on the enemy "anywhere and everywhere that we can." He explained that in the past 22 months enemy strength has doubled.

Johnson has been severely and continually criticized by the doves for intensifying the American effort in Vietnam.

The criticism may have persuaded him to go a little slower but it hasn't stopped him from escalating bit by bit and, after the groundwork laid in recent months, it isn't likely to stop him now.

Catholic Scholars Contest Tradition

NEW YORK (AP) — Some thing like a "Declaration of Independence" in religious teaching is brewing today in Roman Catholic academic circles. It is challenging traditional controls. It is asserting an autonomy of scholarship, with its own built-in disciplines. And it is shaking administrative, as it did last week in the controversy over the Rev. Charles E. Curran at the Catholic University of America. It also is stirring sporadic friction elsewhere against old style ecclesiastical paternalism, and producing a touchy mood among theological faculties about their prerogatives. "It's a new spirit entirely, with both dangers and validities," says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Tracy Ellis, renowned church historian of Brown University. Observes historian Philip Gleason of the University of Notre Dame:

"Academic freedom has become almost overnight a subject of the most pressing concern to Catholic educators, and attitudes toward it have changed drastically and rapidly." This week's student faculty boycott in Washington, D.C., graphically dramatized the problem, completely paralyzing a Catholic University for the first time in the nation's history, and involving a pontifical institution most closely linked to the church's hierarchy. The outcome, after a shut down for three class days, brought reinstatement and promotion of Father Curran, a theology professor, the support of whose colleagues at Catholic University of America overcame an ouster order from overseeing bishops. What was gained, he said, is "an opportunity" to work for the betterment of the university, Catholic scholarship and theological investigation. That realm—of untrammelled religious inquiry — is the explosive zone. And the traditional checkreins on it are either being slackened, questioned or resisted in many Catholic domains of learning. "A reformation is going on in Catholic universities, paralleling the reformation going on in the church," says the Rev. Robert E. McNally of the Jesuits' Fordham University in New York. "The heart of this reform of the universities is freedom of thought versus authority." As many church scholars emphasize, this does not mean a revolt against the role of the bishops as the authoritative teaching magisterium in doctrine, but rather a distinction between it and the field of probing academic analysis. The university atmosphere, they maintain, requires latitude for questioning stated positions, for the interplay of various viewpoints, for pen search, and yet it also imposes its own demanding standards to weed out incompetence. In a recent address at Cathol-icism's University of Dayton, where the problem also has caused conflict, the Rev. Neil G. McCluskey of Notre Dame declared: "The Catholic university must arm its professors of theology with the same academic freedom that is accorded its historians, physicists and sociologists." "There is no more academic justification for the entry by a local bishop or provincial into the university discipline of theology than there is for the local mayor or governor to intrude into the field of political science." Many Catholic scholars take a modified approach to the issue, while others eye its emergence with misgivings, but in any case, it has become a volatile undercurrent in the church's higher educational institutions. These include 309 colleges and universities and more than 600 seminaries. Greater church flexibility generated by the second Vatican Council, along with ecumenical exchanges and the enlarged role of Catholic laymen, have spurred the widening of the theological perspectives on the campuses. "It's part of a kind of wave of freedom," says the Rev. Thurston Davis, editor of the Jesuit weekly, America. "It's a touchy thing." And it has flared into open clashes in several recent cases, with keen sensitivities about it simmering widely in theological faculties. "There probably is not a Catholic institution in the land that hasn't felt it to some extent," Msgr. Ellis said. "One can almost expect these incidents to break out here and there, now and then, for some time to come." Although many Catholic institutions, such as Notre Dame, Fordham and St. Louis University, have developed academic breadth without upset, others proceeding more cautiously have encountered keen struggles about the matter. Often the issue boiled up over allegedly arbitrary administrative rule, as in the case of St. John's University in New York, where the summary firing of 29 teachers in late 1965 has caused a drawout battle. Demands for more faculty rights in governing departmental policies and for greater academic freedom in the teaching of philosophy and theology also have figured in the dispute at this largest of the country's Catholic schools.

Nazi Rudolph Hess Claims He's in Excellent Health

BERLIN (AP) — Rudolf Hess, former deputy to Adolf Hitler and the last remaining inmate in West Berlin's big Spandau war crimes prison, claims that he is mentally and physically sound. "He said that except for some stomach troubles he has had over the years, he is totally healthy," Alfred Seidl, lawyer for the onetime Nazi bigwig, told newsmen Friday after a half-hour visit with Hess. It was the fourth visit by Seidl since Hess was sentenced to life in prison in 1946 by the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal. Hess, who was 73 three days ago, often has been reported suffering from mental illness. "He asked me specifically to counter any newspaper or press reports that he is mentally sick," Seidl said. "From the four meetings with him (the first after Nuernberg was in November 1964), I could not determine the slightest criterion to prove that he was not mentally healthy," the lawyer added. "He looked good and his face has good color." Seidl said he spent most of the last visit telling Hess about a debate in the English House of Lords Feb. 9. The debate concerned Hess, and Lord Chalfont, British disarmament minister, stressed his government's view that the famous prisoner should be freed on humane grounds. The United States and France also have indicated they would be willing to see him released. Only the Russians have refused. The Western allies have proposed cutting down the prison area that houses Hess to reduce the cost of keeping just one man in a prison built to hold 600. The Russians have agreed to this in principle. The West German government bears the cost of running Spandau, about $100,000

Vote for E. TOMMY THOMPSON Democrat for MAYOR City of Circleville Your Vote Appreciated

God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I should, and the wisdom to know the difference.

MY PLEDGE

If I am elected mayor: 1. to make ours a more progressive city by bringing in more industry; 2. helping to provide those things which will attract new families to our community — help our city grow; 3. to instigate the obtaining of a much needed indoor theater for our community especially for our children, without cost to taxpayers; 4. to work with all who are interested in providing the proper facilities for healthy growth, schooling and recreation for our children. E. Tommy Thompson, Democratic candidate for Mayor, a man who cares about his fellowman — who cares about the welfare of our children — a man who cares enough to act instead of talk. Tommy Thompson says "In the year I have been in business on W. Main St., I believe I have proven what long hours and hard work can accomplish. Our business at Burger Chef is constantly increasing and growing. My records are open to any interested person. This is why I know that in serving you as mayor, I can do the same for our community. A vote for Tommy Thompson is a vote for our future and our children's future.

Just as a physics professor can't "go off into the wild blue" with indefensible ideas, Father McNally noted, a theology professor also must meet the tests of excellence inherent in the intellectual community itself. "But he doesn't need outside pressure stepping in and telling him what to say," he added. Although Catholic universities have long affirmed this inner disciplinary freedom in other areas of study, it has only lately become a rising issue in the theological departments.

simmering widely in theological faculties.

"There probably is not a Catholic institution in the land that hasn't felt it to some extent," Msgr. Ellis said. "One can almost expect these incidents to break out here and there, now and then, for some time to come."

Although many Catholic institutions, such as Notre Dame, Fordham and St. Louis University, have developed academic breadth without upset, others proceeding more cautiously have encountered keen struggles about the matter.

Often the issue boiled up over allegedly arbitrary administrative rule, as in the case of St. John's University in New York, where the summary firing of 29 teachers in late 1965 has caused a drawdown battle.

Demands for more faculty rights in governing departmental policies and for greater academic freedom in the teaching of philosophy and theology also have figured in the dispute at this largest of the country's Catholic schools.

Nazi Rudolph Hess Claims He's in Excellent Health

BERLIN (AP) — Rudolf Hess, former deputy to Adolf Hitler and the last remaining inmate in West Berlin's big Spandau war crimes prison, claims that he is mentally and physically sound.

"He said that except for some stomach troubles he has had over the years, he is totally healthy," Alfred Seidl, lawyer for the onetime Nazi bigwig, told newsmen Friday after a half-hour visit with Hess.

It was the fourth visit by Seidl since Hess was sentenced to life in prison in 1946 by the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal.

Hess, who was 73 three days ago, often has been reported suffering from mental illness.

"He asked me specifically to counter any newspaper or press reports that he is mentally sick," Seidl said.

"From the four meetings with him (the first after Nuernberg was in November 1946), I could not determine the slightest criterion to prove that he was not mentally healthy," the lawyer added.

"He looked good and his face has good color."

Seidl said he spent most of the last visit telling Hess about a debate in the English House of Lords Feb. 9.

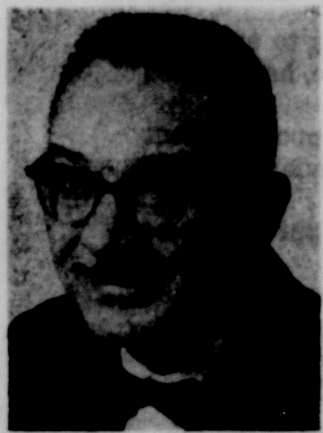

The debate concerned Hess, and Lord Chalfont, British disarmament minister, stressed his government's view that the famous prisoner should be freed on humane grounds.

The United States and France also have indicated they would be willing to see him released. Only the Russians have refused.

The Western allies have proposed cutting down the prison area that houses Hess to reduce the cost of keeping just one man in a prison built to hold 600. The Russians have agreed to this in principle. The West German government bears the cost of running Spandau, about $100,000

God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I should, and the wisdom to know the difference.

MY PLEDGE

If I am elected mayor: 1. to make ours a more progressive city by bringing in more industry; 2. helping to provide those things which will attract new families to our community — help our city grow; 3. to instigate the obtaining of a much needed indoor theater for our community especially for our children, without cost to taxpayers; 4. to work with all who are interested in providing the proper facilities for healthy growth, schooling and recreation for our children.

E. Tommy Thompson, Democratic candidate for Mayor, a man who cares about his fellowman — a man who cares about the welfare of our children — a man who cares enough to act instead of talk.

Tommy Thompson says "In the year I have been in business on W. Main St., I believe I have proven what long hours and hard work can accomplish. Our business at Burger Chef is constantly increasing and growing. My records are open to any interested person. This is why I know that in serving you as mayor, I can do the same for our community."

A vote for Tommy Thompson is a vote for our future and our children's future.

'Oscarcast' One of TV's Mist-Viewed Productions

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Oscar is still the talk of the town — any town.

Three weeks later, folks are still discussing the pros and cons — mostly cons — about the 39th Academy Awards. And not only in Hollywood. According to network estimates, 65 million people saw the Oscarcast, making it one of the most-viewed television shows in history.

During a recent visit to the Midwest, I heard such questions and comments as:

"Why did Julie Christie wear that awful outfit?" "Wasn't it disgraceful that Elizabeth Taylor didn't make an appearance to accept her Oscar?" "Why was no tribute paid to the memory of Walt Disney?"

Nowhere was the Oscarcast more thoroughly discussed than among the Hollywood film makers in Kansas for "In Cold Blood." They huddled around television sets in motel rooms, scrutinizing the annual ritual in the homeland.

One interested viewer was Richard Brooks, a nominee for his direction of "The Professionals." Not because he lost to the favorite, Fred Zinnemann, but because he is naturally combative. Brooks afterward put forth his own plan for making the awards the greatest show on earth.

"In the first place," he propounded, "there would be no telecast to home sets. The entire show would be put on closed-circuit television and made available to any theater that wants it."

"Thus instead of having the nation's theaters empty on awards night, they would be filled. And the customers could stay and see the regular film attraction, if they cared to."

The proposal of theater television.

New Era Confusing
HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The modernistic new lobby of the New Era really confused one man.

He parked his car in front of the building, entered the lobby and walked up to the front desk. "I'd like a single room for two nights," he said.

"This is a newspaper office," he was told.

"My gosh," the stranger gasped, "I thought it was a motel."

sion has been made and rejected before. It is the second part of the Brooks Plan that is revolutionary:

"I would do away with the Abercrombie and Fitch boys (he means the Price, Waterhouse accountants who tally the votes). The entire voting would take place at the very moment the audience was watching."

"Here's how it would work: all 2,500 members of the academy would be seated in the auditorium. Before each seat would be five buttons. The five nominees for best actress would appear on the screen. Then the voters would be asked to press the button corresponding to their choice."

"The results would be fed into a computer and flashed immediately on the screen. Imagine the suspense, the excitement!"

But would such mass, instantaneous voting produce fair results? "Absolutely," assured Brooks. "Each voter would be faced with the moment of truth, when he must make his choice according to his conscience. He would be much more fair than in the present system, when he might vote on the kitchen table at 2 A.M., subject to the pressures of ads or his wife's opinions."

100,000 New Jobs For Ohioans

ISSUE NUMBER 1 — What makes the Ohio Bond Commission so good for Ohio taxpayers?

First, it assures efficient, long-range planning financed by growth on a pay-as-you-use basis.

Second, taxpayers have greater control of expenditures through their own legislators.

Third, there is a limit of 3/4 of one per cent (less than two days' receipts) on the General Revenue Fund in any one year.

Fourth, the OBC is the proven businesslike method of purchasing major improvements.

VOTE YES FOR STATE ISSUE NUMBER 1

ISSUE NUMBER 2 — Ohio, under federal court order to establish a permanent plan for apportioning the Ohio Legislature, has devised the new one now in effect.

Issue Number Two provides for a fair system of apportionment of the Legislature as approved by Federal Courts under the one-man-one-vote decision.

To become permanent, this plan requires voter approval to be inserted in the Ohio Constitution.

The new plan has given everyone in Ohio equal representation for the first time in history. It also provides for periodic readjustment of representation on the basis of population change.

A "YES" vote will keep this new court-approved fair representation plan in effect.

VOTE YES FOR STATE ISSUE NUMBER 2

Ohio Needs Your Help

Ohio voters, on May 2, have the chance to gain greater control of and a greater voice in their state government.

At the same time, you can advance progress in Ohio to provide more and better jobs. You can assure continuance of the fair system of apportionment as approved by Federal Courts which gives every Ohioan an equal voice in the Ohio Legislature for the first time in history.

Local governments now face urgent needs. Cities, villages, and counties need financial help.

The Ohio Bond Commission — State Issue Number 1 — provides for pay-as-you-use financing of careful, long-range planning. It also provides for more rigid control of expenditures by legislators directly representing the people. Every project is subject to approval by the Legislature.

Issue Number 2, fair legislative apportionment, assures continuance of the new court-approved system giving voters a more direct and equal voice in selecting their lawmakers. The system makes lawmakers more responsive to the will of the people. The new plan has approval of the federal district court.

Ohio needs your help and your YES VOTE on Issues 1 and 2. I urge every voter to support them to give the people greater voice in their government, keep taxes down and payrolls up, and help provide more and better jobs for Ohioans.

sons were hospitalized at that city, and about 40 were treated and released.

About 20 Waseca homes were destroyed and 50 damaged as the twister cut a path two blocks wide and eight blocks long — touching down in the southeast part of the town, then skipping over a lake only to begin smashing homes again on the other side.

Albert Lea had a wider area of destruction, but the known death toll there was two—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Manuel of Al- bert Lea.

Ten persons were hospitalized at Albert Lea. Twenty others were treated and released.

The tornado hit Albert Lea's west side, then slid around the north edge of the city of 19,000. It cut a path about 20 feet wide for 2½ miles, damaging or de- stroying nearly 100 homes.

At Albert Lea, nearly 150 resi- dents of St. John's Home for the Elderly escaped injury although six windows were blown in and at least 10 rooms in the home had their walls pierced by tor- nado debris.

A spokesman for the home said it was a miracle the resi- dents were not in the dining- room lounge, where the six large plate-glass windows shat- tered. They would have been there if the advent of Daylight Saving Time Sunday had not pushed their dinner time back one hour.

Raw Steel Decline Caused by Inventory Correction

CLEVELAND (AP) —Steel- makers are caught in the middle of an inventory correction which is causing a decline in raw steel production of 5.7 per cent for the first part of the year, com- pared to last year, Steel Maga- zine said today.

Sluggishness in output is blamed in part on an excess of stocks of finished durable goods, the metalworking weekly said. However, the magazine said the situation is starting to clear up and the amount of finished goods "now leav- ing plants is about equal to new production."

Another disruptive factor in output is labor problems, cur- rent and prospective, which have contributed to general business unsettlement.

"The trucking situation in the Midwest is particularly distress- ing to steel producers and users," Steel said.

The magazine said "mills must maintain abnormally high stocks of steel to meet quick delivery demands as more buy- ers resort to erratic procure- ment policy."

Output of steel has been curb- ed to correct the imbalance of stocks, Steel said. The decline has been 7 per cent in the last two months and is still falling. Raw steel output in the week ended April 29 was estimated at 2,350,000 net tons down about 35,000 tons from the previous week.

Steel said output is not ex- pected to pick up much until automakers start calling for larger tonnages and construction activity accelerates. The magazine also said: "The military continues to call for sizable tonnages to back the Vietnam war effort; appliance makers are buying cautiously as the result of a slowdown in sales of major items; and the machine tool industry is calling for less tonnage, reflecting cur- tailed plant expansion and im- provement projects." Steel's composite scrap price on No. 1 heavy melting scrap remained at $26.50 a gross ton for the third straight week.

Dogs Outrank Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Aborig- nes of Western Australia rate their women after their hunting dogs in the social order of things, a scientist inducted into one of the tribes told a youth seminar at The Explorers Club.

Henry W. H. Butler, who will conduct a wildlife study of a small Australian island under a club grant, said men rate first, children next, the hunting dogs third and women fourth. Per- haps the women's lot isn't as bad as it seems. The men do much of the cooking.

sons were hospitalized at that city, and about 40 were treated and released.

About 20 Waseca homes were destroyed and 50 damaged as the twister cut a path two blocks wide and eight blocks long — touching down in the southeast part of the town, then skipping over a lake only to begin smashing homes again on the other side.

Albert Lea had a wider area of destruction, but the known death toll there was two—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Manual of Albert Lea.

Ten persons were hospitalized at Albert Lea. Twenty others were treated and released.

The tornado hit Albert Lea's west side, then slid around the north edge of the city of 19,000. It cut a path about 20 feet wide for 2½ miles, damaging or destroying nearly 100 homes.

At Albert Lea, nearly 150 residents of St. John's Home for the Elderly escaped injury although six windows were blown in and at least 10 rooms in the home had their walls pierced by tornado debris.

A spokesman for the home said it was a miracle the residents were not in the dining-room lounge, where the six large plate-glass windows shattered. They would have been there if the advent of Daylight Saving Time Sunday had not pushed their dinner time back one hour.

Raw Steel Decline Caused by Inventory Correction

CLEVELAND (AP) —Steel- makers are caught in the middle of an inventory correction which is causing a decline in raw steel production of 5.7 per cent for the first part of the year, com- pared to last year, Steel Maga- zine said today.

Sluggishness in output is blamed in part on an excess of stocks of finished durable goods, the metalworking weekly said. However, the magazine said the situation is starting to clear up and the amount of finished goods "now leav- ing plants is about equal to new production."

Another disruptive factor in output is labor problems, current and prospective, which have contributed to general business unsettlement.

"The trucking situation in the Midwest is particularly distress- ing to steel producers and users," Steel said.

The magazine said "mills must maintain abnormally high stocks of steel to meet quick delivery demands as more buy- ers resort to erratic procure- ment policy."

Output of steel has been curb- ed to correct the imbalance of stocks, Steel said. The decline has been 7 per cent in the last two months and is still falling. Raw steel output in the week ended April 29 was estimated at 2,350,000 net tons down about 35,000 tons from the previous week.

Steel said output is not ex- pected to pick up much until automakers start calling for larger tonnages and construction activity accelerates.

The magazine also said: "The military continues to call for sizable tonnages to back the Vietnam war effort; appliance makers are buying cautiously as the result of a slowdown in sales of major items; and the machine tool industry is calling for less tonnage, reflecting curtailed plant expansion and im- provement projects." Steel's composite scrap price on No. 1 heavy melting scrap remained at $26.50 a gross ton for the third straight week.

A TAIL OF WOE—Fuzzy the long-suffering cat owned by Tom McMillan in Huntsville, Tex., reproofed Roscoe and his three canine brothers and sisters only occasionally as they continued nipping his tail. British Law Considered Tough on Hunters

By JOSEPH WHITT
Central Press Association
Correspondent

LONDON — "We went partridge hunting on the moors," said the American sportsman, "and we ended up in an English jail. We had to pay a $140 fine and we never saw our guns again."

"The charges? Trespassing on private property. Hunting without authorization. Unauthorized, and consequently illegal, use of firearms for hunting."

"Our bag? One bird each."

"These hunters meant no harm. The court recognized this when it set them free on a year's probation instead of handing them a jail term. But they did have the misfortune to run afoul of Britain's stringent poaching laws."

The first thing for would-be hunters to understand is that in Britain the right to pursue game is always vested in some person. Usually this person is the owner or occupier of the property on which game is sought.

"Whoever he is," said the gamekeeper, "you'd better have his written permission if you expect to hunt on his preserve. If you don't, you'll be guilty of trespassing in search of game and that, my friend, is poaching."

"Before you can hunt with impunity, you must also have a game license. This must be taken out before you can kill, take or pursue any game whatever."

"This is where the police come in. A police officer may stop and search anyone he suspects of poaching. He may confiscate any guns, ammunition and game found on his suspect. And he can stop and search any vehicle he thinks is being used for poaching."

"Game", in Britain, has a special meaning not generally used in the United States. Here it includes hare, pheasant, partridge, quail, snipe, deer and rabbit."

If you don't have a game license, the gamekeeper said, you must get a gun license. This authorizes you to possess a firearm of any description. You can't hunt game with only a gun license, but you can hunt vermin."

"What're vermin?" the gamekeeper asked. "Birds and animals that are pests. Among them are rats, mice, hawks, weasels and crows."

"However, remember — you can't even hunt vermin without the authorization of the owner of the land."

Hunting laws go back to the olden days of England. "At one time hunting was a sport only for aristocrats," the gamekeeper said. "An ordinary commoner could get the death penalty for killing a deer."

"Even today the swan has royal protection. The sovereign is still Seigneur of the Swans. No one may own or kill a swan. The monarch also protects whales, if any ever appear in British waters. Many of these hunting and fishing laws go back to King Edward II, during the early 14th century."

"The gamekeeper smiled. 'Things are more democratic today. But the monarch still supports the poaching laws.'"

'Oregon Bound' Man Listed Real Interesting Sale Bill

By MRS. ELIZABETH JONES
John Peters, 540 E. Franklin St. was handed an interesting clipping from an old newspaper just before service at the Evangelical United Brethren Church at Ringgold.

The clipping concerned a list of items in a sale of farm chattels held in Woodford County, Ky., in 1824. And Peters admitted to peeking at the news item during church. Mrs. Peters however made him put it in his pocket until after the worship service. Then he forgot about it.

He discovered the clipping in his Sunday suit a few days ago and brought it into the Herald.

J. L. Moss whose sale was advertised was leaving for "Oregon Territory" by ox team. He was offering all his personal property for sale.

The sale was to take place at his home two miles south of Versailles, Ky., on the McCounsferry pike. It was to begin at 8 a. m. "with plenty to eat and drink."

All ox teams were to be up for sale. But the owner was reserving two teams. Buck and Ben and Tom and Jerry for the trip.

Among the items on the sale bill were two milk cows, ox yoke and baby ox yoke; plow with weed mole board, a 60-gallon soap kettle, 85 sugar troughs, 10 gallons of maple syrup, two spinning wheels, 32-gallon barrel of Johnson Miller whiskey, 7 years old; 20 gallons of apple brandy, a 40-gallon copper still;

One dozen real books, two handle books, one dozen wooden pitchforks, bullet mold and powder horn, 50 gallons of soft soap, hams, bacon, lard, 40 gallons of sorghum molasses and six head of fox hounds, all soft mouthed except one.

The last paragraph dealt with the sale of slaves: "At the same time I will sell six slaves, two men, 35 and 59 years old; two boys 12 and 18 years old; two wenches, 30 and 40 years old. Will sell all together to the same party, as will not separate them. An interesting sale bill indeed and in sharp contrast to anything one might find in 1967!

Incidentally, John Peters cannot remember who gave him the news clipping. But he'd like to return it.

Mom's new flame is her new Gas furnace. Every time she thinks of it she feels warm all over.

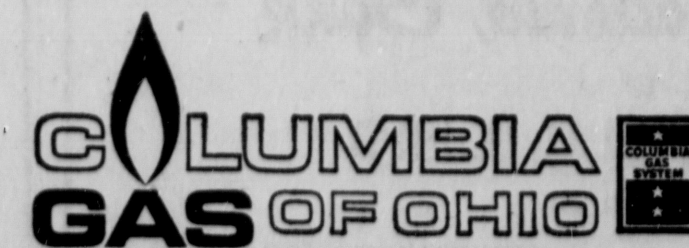

But about that mink. Dad figured it out: Gas heat costs about one-third as much as the flameless kind they had in their last house. Gas saves Dad up to several hundred dollars in heating bills every winter, thousands of dollars

There's more to the Gas heat story. Gas heat is fresh-air heat, circulating filtered-clean air that whisks tobacco smoke and cooking odors out of the air so fast you hardly notice them. Modern Gas heat warms every room evenly, with no chance of chilly floors or clammy basements.

Rodriguez Wins First In Texas Open Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, down on his luck for three years, won the $20,000 first-place purse in the Texas Open Golf Tournament Sunday and promptly donated $5,000 to some others down on their luck.

The small Puerto Rican, who's a favorite with the gallery because of his clowning antics, was deadly serious as he fired five-under-par 66 to surge from second place to the championship in the 72-hole tournament. He had a 277.

New Zealander Bob Charles, who shared second place with Rodriguez following the second round, fired a hot four-under-par front nine in the final 19, added a birdie on the back side, then canceled it with a bogey to finish one-stroke behind the red-hot Rodriguez.

Jets Sweep Doubleheader From Toronto

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Old Man and the Kid starred Sunday as the Columbus Jets swept an International League doubleheader from Toronto, 7-5 and 4-3, completing their initial home stand with four victories in six tests.

Ancient Sam Jones' brilliant relief pitching and heralded rookie slugger Bob Robertson's first IL home run which provided the go-ahead run produced the Jets' first-game triumph.

Columbus broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh frame of the nightcap on a walk, a steal, Elvio Jimenez' single and a Leaf error. Ed Hobaugh won in relief.

In other action, Rochester swept a twin bill from Richmond 11-7 and 1-0; league-leading Syracuse clipped Jacksonville 8-4, and Buffalo split a pair at Toledo, winning 6-4 and then losing to the Mud Hens 6-3.

Rochester, offsetting a grand-slam homer by Richmond's Dave Nicholson, had 18 hits in its opening-game triumph. In the nightcap, Mickey McGuire's double — his fifth straight safety — and Charlie Leonard's pinch-hit single in the seventh gave Rick Delgado victory over Julio Navarro in a tight pitching duel.

Stan Swanson had three RBI for Buffalo with a home run and a double in the Bisons' first-game victory at Toledo. Ike Brown's two-run single featured a three-run fifth inning that helped the Mud Hens annex the second game, which reliever Mike Marshall saved for starter John Miller by inducing Len Boehmer to bounce into a double play with the sacks loaded.

Rookie southpaw John Cumberland, 19, pitched Syracuse to its fourth straight victory at Jacksonville.

Reds, Mets Come Out Even In Sunday's Doubleheader

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sore-armed Jim Maloney and Milt Pappas may be feeling more than local discomfort these days as they watch their replacements in the Cincinnati Reds' pitching rotation do a job.

Their starting spots no doubt are safe, but they'll have to go some to outdo the fellows shouldering the load now.

Billy McCool and Gary Nolan were brilliant again Sunday, following up Gerry Arrigo's one-hitter of Saturday, even though the National League leaders and the New York Mets came out even in the doubleheader.

Veteran Don Cardwell hurled a nifty three-hitter as the Mets won Sunday's first game 2-0, first shutout against the Reds this season.

It was a heartbreaking defeat for McCool, in his first year as a starter, who allowed the Mets only two hits in eight innings and retired in order the last 16 men he faced.

Rookie right-handers Nolan and Tom Seaver dueled in the nightcap, with Nolan getting a 3-2 victory for a 2-1 record.

Nolan, 18, struck out eight batters, boosting his total to 33 strikeouts in 30 2-3 innings. He didn't issue a walk in the route-going performance.

Seaver, 22, like Nolan making his fourth big league appearance, suffered his first defeat for a 2-1 mark. He permitted only seven hits in seven innings before giving way to Jack Lamabe.

The split still enabled the Reds to pick up a half-game on the second place St. Louis Cardinals. Cincinnati is on top by 3 1/2 games with a 15-5 record.

Cardwell (2-1), acquired by the Mets last winter from Pittsburgh, got all the support he needed in the second inning on a solo homer by Ron Swoboda.

McCool wild-pitched home the Mets' other run in the third inning after a walk and Tommy Davis' single. McCool never permitted another baserunner and ace reliever Ted Abernathy finished up, striking out two of

CHS Linksmen Are Defeated By Chillicothe

Sunny and warm weather greeted the Circleville High School golf team at Chillicothe Country Club Saturday morning, but the Tigers lost a dual meet to the Cavaliers, 10-3.

Bill Adkins picked up two points for Circleville, going out in 44 and coming back in 45 for an 89.

Pete Noble was the other Tiger golfer to earn points. His 42-48-90 was good for one-half point. Mike Young shot a 52-45-97 over the CCC layout.

Wagner Nearly Missed Chance To Make Homer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Wagner connected for a ninth-inning homer, giving the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 opening victory over the White Sox in Sunday's doubleheader at Chicago. He almost wasn't there to do it.

Wagner nearly was taken out of the lineup in the eighth, Manager Joe Adcock admitted during the intermission before the Sox came back to take the nightcap 4-2.

Right-hander Gary Bell made the opener his first victory of the season. He helped win it, too, with five putouts, on one of which he had to head off Ron Hansen at the pass with a flying block.

Bell's play at the plate came in the fifth when the Indians led 1-0 after Larry Brown scored in the third on a bloop single by Max Alvis.

"I got in the way of Duke Sims so he couldn't pick up the ball on Don Buford's swinging bunt. We both pulled back, hoping it would roll foul. When it didn't, I grabbed the ball and started to throw to third," Bell related.

"Maxie Alvis was there, but Hansen already was rounding the bag. The only thing I could do was try to cut him off at the pass," said Bell, who is now 1-1.

Bell had the ball about 40 feet up the first base line. Hansen tried to slide in from foul territory, but Gary flew into him, and the only question was whether the pitcher could hold the ball.

"But nobody—not anybody—could have knocked that baby out of my hand," insisted Bell.

His five putouts tied an American League record held by 14 other pitchers.

Adcock heaved a sigh of relief between games.

"Ooh, I almost did it," he said. "I came that close to sending Chico Salmon to left field in the eighth."

"But I knew Wags would be up again in the ninth and he's there because of his bat," the manager said.

So Wags hit the ball 385 into right field with two out after he had struck out twice and fouled out once in his other three appearances. He had an explanation for the earlier flops.

"I pushed the panic button, man. I know I gotta hit to stay in that lineup Besides, I noticed in the papers this morning that the league leaders already got five homers and I only had one," he said.

His homer put Cleveland up 2-0, balancing off Tom McCraw's homer in the last of the ninth.

The Indians gave Steve Hargan a 2-0 lead in the first two innings of the second game on run — scoring singles by Joe Azcue and Alvis.

But Hargan walked the lead-off man in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, and in each case, the Sox scored as they mixed in three stolen bases. Tommie Agee drove in two of the runs on a sacrifice fly and a bloop single and Al Weis drove in the other with a drag bunt single.

Hoyt Wilhelm, nearing his 44th birthday, worked the last four innings and picked up the 100th relief victory of his career.

Rookie southpaw John Cumberland, 19, pitched Syracuse to its fourth straight victory at Jacksonville.

Bob Goalby, who shared the lead two days, fired a fine three-under-par 68. The Palm Springs, Calif. pro finished at 278 to tie for second place with Charles.

The two other third-round leaders, Miller Barber and Billy Casper, faltered and fell to one-over 72s. They finished at 282 behind Charles and Goalby.

The 31-year-old, 125-pounder said he was going for the Pecan Valley Country Club course record of 65 so he could win a standing offer of $6,500.

Even though he didn't beat the record, he said, the tornado victims will get a check anyway.

hits in the game, including a double by George Hill and one by Tom Wright. Wright, the leading batter for CHS, also cracked a single.

OTHER hits were singles by Frankie Carter, Joe Winner, Jeff Steele and Don Cordle.

Cordle went all the way on the mound for Circleville. He walked three, fanned five and allowed four singles.

The Tigers left seven runners stranded on the base paths. Mt. Vernon had six runners left on base.

The CHS runs were in the third, when one runner scored, and in the fourth, when three crossed the plate.

Dodgers Are in Real Trouble

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The new look in Los Angeles is working out nicely — for the San Francisco Giants.

"They're not Dodgers any more. At least, not the Dodgers I've known," Jim Davenport said Sunday after helping the Giants beat Don Drysdale 5-1 to complete their first three-game sweep at Los Angeles in 10 years.

"It's strange to look around and not see Sandy Koufax, Maury Wills, Tommy Davis, Lou Johnson and Willie Davis," added Davenport, whose two-run pinch single capped San Francisco's decisive seventh inning rally. "They aren't the same team without them."

Koufax' retirement, the loss of Wills and Tommy Davis in trades and injuries to Johnson and Willie Davis all have contributed to the National League champions' early-season troubles. The Dodgers have dropped 10 of their 16 starts and are mired in eighth place, seven games behind league-leading Cincinnati.

The Giants didn't miss the absent Dodgers in taking the first two games of the series 5-4 and 5-0, and they were happy to see holdover Drysdale in Sunday's windup game.

The loss was Drysdale's seventh straight to San Francisco, although the veteran right hander still holds a 29-25 career edge over the Giants.

While Bob Bolin and reliever Frank Linzy combined for a three-hitter that lifted the slow-starting Giants past Los Angeles into seventh place, Cincinnati divided a doubleheader with the New York Mets and moved 3½ games up on second-place St. Louis.

The Reds, beaten 2-0 by Don Cardwell's three-hitter in the opener, took the second game 3-2 behind rookie Gary Nolan. The Cardinals bowed to Pittsburgh 2-0 as Juan Pizarro fired a four-hitter and his catcher, Jerry May, drove in both runs with a homer and single.

Philadelphia split a twin bill with Atlanta, winning 6-4 before falling 6-3 in the nightcap, and rookie Rich Nye's four-hitter led the Chicago Cubs past Houston 4-1 in other NL games.

Detroit swept a pair from Baltimore 2-1 and 6-4 — although held hitless by Steve Barber and Stu Miller in the opener — in the American League. The New York Yankees beat California 4-1 in 10 innings but lost the second game 4-2; the Chicago White Sox trimmed Cleveland 4-2 after dropping the first game 2-1; Washington took two from Minnesota 7-3 and 3-0, and Kansas City blanked Boston 1-0.

The Giants caught up with Drysdale in the seventh after he had yielded one run and two hits — while striking out nine — through the first six innings.

Successive singles by Jim Hart, Tom Haller and Ollie Brown sent the Giants ahead 2-1 before Hal Lanier sacrificed and Davenport, batting for Bolin, delivered the two-run crusher.

Linzy then blanked Los Angeles over the final three innings, protecting Bolin's second victory in four decisions.

Deron Johnson's run-scoring single off Mets rookie Tom Seaver broke a 2-2 tie in the second game at Cincinnati, enabling 18-year-old Nolan to boost his pitching record to 2-1. Ron Swoboda's second inning homer, one of two New York hits in the opener, was all Cardwell needed in outpitching the Reds' Billy McCool.

May stroked a run-scoring single off loser Larry Jaster in the second inning at St. Louis and slammed his second major league homer off reliever Nelson Briles in the fifth as the Pirates ran their winning string to four.

Consecutive doubles by pinch hitters Don Lock and Gary Sutherland produced three runs in the ninth, pushing Philadelphia past the Braves. Felipe Alou, Joe Torre and Rico Carty all homered for Atlanta in the sixth.

The Braves bounced back in the second game, scoring three runs in the fifth and adding a pair in the sixth on back-to-back homers by Alou and Hank Aaron. Alou had four hits, including a single that triggered the fifth inning rally.

Ron Santo blasted a three-run homer off Houston's Bo Belinsky in the first inning and Nye made the margin stand up, retiring 15 of the first 16 Astros he faced. The young left-hander had previously pitched 22 1-3 innings in the majors without being backed by a Cub run.

Special Drafts Start for New NBA Franchise

NEW YORK (AP)—The new Seattle and San Diego franchises in the National Basketball Association began stocking their clubs today in a two-day special draft.

Each of the present NBA clubs placed seven players on an untouchable list with the new clubs, picking alternately, allowed to choose one player from each club from among those who are left. That will give each of the new teams five players.

Then the 10 existing teams may name another man to the untouchable list and the new teams pick 20 more players, giving both teams 15 players. The regular NBA draft of college players begins Wednesday.

Dodgers Are in Real Trouble

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The new look in Los Angeles is working out nicely — for the San Francisco Giants.

"They're not Dodgers any more. At least, not the Dodgers I've known," Jim Davenport said Sunday after helping the Giants beat Don Drysdale 5-1 to complete their first three-game sweep at Los Angeles in 10 years.

"It's strange to look around and not see Sandy Koufax, Maury Wills, Tommy Davis, Lou Johnson and Willie Davis," added Davenport, whose two-run pinch single capped San Francisco's decisive seventh inning rally. "They aren't the same team without them."

Koufax' retirement, the loss of Wills and Tommy Davis in trades and injuries to Johnson and Willie Davis all have contributed to the National League champions' early-season troubles. The Dodgers have dropped 10 of their 16 starts and are mired in eighth place, seven games behind league-leading Cincinnati.

The Giants didn't miss the absent Dodgers in taking the first two games of the series 5-4 and 5-0, and they were happy to see holdover Drysdale in Sunday's windup game.

The loss was Drysdale's seventh straight to San Francisco, although the veteran right hander still holds a 29-25 career edge over the Giants.

While Bob Bolin and reliever Frank Linzy combined for a three-hitter that lifted the slow-starting Giants past Los Angeles into seventh place, Cincinnati divided a doubleheader with the New York Mets and moved 3½ games up on second-place St. Louis.

CARMEL, Calif. — One of America's most unusual communities is celebrating its Golden Anniversary.

Carmel - by - the - Sea acquired incorporation just 50 years ago, although it had been a coastal retreat for Californians since before the turn of the century. Yet it was the creation of a city administration that has helped the town, world-known for its cultural attributes to resist the ravages of change, even in this age of conformity.

The picturesque town of fairy tale-like homes, hidden art studios and unpaved walkways has long been a Mecca for artists, writers, actors, the great, the near-great and unknowns. Many things remain unchanged although the town appears as modern as today. Huge pine and cypress trees still block the streets. There are few lighted advertising signs.

People go to the post office for their mail, since there are no home deliveries. They prefer this way, offering a chance to meet and talk with friends in the way of the American small town of yesteryear.

Carmelites fight off freeways, industries, parking meters, and other modern "conveniences" with vengeance. The sound of a bulldozer will shake up everyone, fearing that any major alteration would only encourage more and bring disaster to an area which Robert Louis Stevenson long ago designated as one of the world's beauty spots.

Carmel's rich traditions reach far back into American history. Father Junipero Serra established a Spanish mission here in 1770, from which the community took its name. The priest described the place as "The Garden of God."

Stevenson, who resided at nearby Monterey, used the coast line as a setting for "Treasure Island." College professors from Stanford University and the University of California used it as a retreat around 1900. Since then, many creative people have come here, seeking inspiration from the dazzling meeting of land, surf and sky, amid pearly white sands and turquoise breakers.

Poet Robinson Jeffers built a great stone mansion, one of the area's landmarks, along the coast. Jack London, Sinclair Lewis and Gertrude Atherton frequented the place, as do such contemporaries as John Steinbeck and Henry Miller.

There has been a constant array of artists and photographers, too, making this one of the most sketched and photographed bits of real estate on the conti-ment. Even cartoonists like the late Jimmy Hatlo (They'll Do It Every Time) have called it home.

Many Hollywood and Broadway stars have been attracted to the place in a steady stream that has remained undiminished through the decades. Local folk hardly lift an eyebrow at the sight of Bing Crosby, Jean Arthur, Kim Novak or Elizabeth Taylor on the street. Many major movies have been made in the vicinity, too.

Today thousands of tourists and weekenders wander along the quaint streets, attracted by the unusual shops, the picturesque of the town, and the surroundings. Some go away disappointed, for Carmel has managed to hold out against things which typify most other beach communities — hamburger and ice cream stands, carnival amusements, cheap souvenir shops, penny arcades, hot rod races and rowdy gangs.

However, even in Carmel, it's difficult anymore to single out the true artists by their beards and casual dress — both are "in" with today's young people.

Britain Again To Try for ECM

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Cabinet agreed Sunday that Britain should try again to join the European Common Market, but it set conditions apparently to assure protection of its trading interests.

The conditions were kept secret. They were part of a compromise agreement reached at an eight-hour meeting at Chequers, the prime minister's official country home.

Wilson sought a free hand to negotiate Britain's entry into the six-nation customs union. But seven or eight of the 21 Cabinet ministers are known to oppose British entry. They stressed the economic risks and tried to attach conditions that might cripple British negotiators at Common Market headquarters in Brussels.

Officials said the compromise forestalled, at least for now, any resignations by these ministers.

Britain tried to join the Common Market in 1963, but its application was vetoed by French President Charles de Gaulle. Continental supporters of the British candidacy have urged Wilson to join as quickly as possible then negotiate the best possible deal from the inside. The critics in Britain want to arrange safeguards before they agree to membership.

Among major problems worrying the Cabinet critics are the Common Market's agricultural system and its higher food prices the future of New Zealand dairy produce and West Indian sugar, which long have been dependent on sales to Britain; the future of the British pound; the length of the transition period to cushion the change in industry and the British welfare state apparatus, and the free movement of workers.

Under the compromise agreement, it presumably will be up to Wilson to decide what measures are necessary to safeguard the interests of Britain and the British Commonwealth, including New Zealand and the West Indies.

The agreement is to be ratified at a formal Cabinet meeting Tuesday and announced to Parliament and the nation shortly after.

The leading Cabinet opponent of economic integration with Europe is Douglas Jay, president of the Board of Trade. Others are believed to include Transport Minister Barbara Castle, Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden, Agriculture Minister Fred Peart, Scottish Secretary William Rose and Housing Minister Anthony Greenwood.

loss of 13 U.S. planes to MIGs. Air Force pilots pounded Communist rail lines and yards in the Hanoi area during 65 missions over the North Sunday.

The Air Force missions were the largest since last Oct. 12, when 66 were flown. Navy pilots, hitting at storage areas northeast of the port city of Haiphong and communication lines in the southern panhandle, logged 58 missions. Marine pilots added another 10.

In a major raid Sunday on the Ha Gia railroad yards and sidings north of Hanoi Air Force pilots reported hundreds of feet of track ripped up by 750 pound bombs as they flew through heavy antiaircraft fire and MIG interceptors.

Navy pilots reported destroying or damaging 32 Communist barges moving along the coast of North Vietnam with supplies for Communist troops fighting in the South.

In the ground action, some 1,500 U. S. Marines bled North Vietnamese regulars Sunday and today six miles northwest of Khe Sanh along the Laotian border just south of the demilitarized zone.

At the Marine and Army artillery outpost at Gio Linh to the east and near the coast, an undetermined number of 82mm mortar and 105mm artillery rounds were received. One Marine was reported killed.

A Vietnamese spokesman said, however, that some of the rounds fell into a nearby village, killing or wounding 30 civilians.

Carmelites fight off freeways, industries, parking meters, and other modern "conveniences" with vengeance. The sound of a bulldozer will shake up everyone, fearing that any major alteration would only encourage more and bring disaster to an area which Robert Louis Stevenson long ago designated as one of the world's beauty spots.

Speaker Slated At Cattleman's May Convention

Farrington R. Carpenter 80, a prominent retired rancher and lawyer from Hayden, Colo., is slated as principal speaker at the 1967 Ohio State Charolais Assn. Field Day May 17, at the Triple E. Ranch near Gallipolis.

Carpenter's address will be one of eight events highlighting the all-day session in which 17 university professors, department heads, livestock officials, ranchers, extension agents and community leaders participating.

It is estimated that over 1,000 persons, mostly cattlemen, will take part in the function, termed by Emerson E. Evans, owner of the Triple E. Ranch as by far the greatest program for beef cattle breeders ever assembled.
